Highlights Of Farm Program

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson today indicated several major new elements in the Administration's many-sided attack on the nation's farm problem.

"These basic proposals form the newest stage of our dynamic farm program," the Secretary said. They will be spelled out in detail and augmented with additional and specific proposals when the Administration submits its recommendations to Congress next month.

A highlighted by the Secretary, they are: A soil bank—provided for payments for establishing grass and trees as well as for contracts to keep soil bank acreage out of production of surplus crops, thus combining immediate aid for farmers with a long-range conservation goal to benefit all citizens.

Protection for family farms—liberalized credit for farmers who cannot obtain loans through ordinary channels.

Broadened surplus disposal—Increase of grants and donations to low-income groups at home and abroad; expansion of foreign markets; enlarged and streamlined barter program; expanded funds for removal of market gluts of perishables; stepped-up school lunch and armed service use.

Strengthened commodity programs—easing up of controls, such as exemption of wheat from marketing quotas when fed on farm; new program for corn, cotton and other commodities to stop further accumulation of surpluses and reduce carryovers.

New appropriations for research—request for important increase in funds to develop new markets, new crops and new uses.

"These and other proposals to be announced later grew out of the solid foundation of the present farm act and of the six points President Eisenhower enumerated in Denver a few weeks ago," the Secretary said. "They reflect exhaustive studies and are designed to benefit farmers and tion. By the time construction was nearing completion, Christmas was coming and the class decided to add the holiday spirit. The pupils took to their books to discover how Christmas was celebrated in the 18th Century. They found a tiny tree and decorated it with strings of popcorn, beads of cranberries, candles, gingerbread boys, small packages, dancing paper dolls, candy and Christmas balls.

Each door of the buildings in the replica was teamed with a tiny wreath and ribbon.

The class decided all the town needed was people, so little dolls were dressed in 18th Century costume and placed in the scene to add atmosphere.

After that the pupils sprinkled snow over the finished project and called it "Christmas at Williamsburg."

If you haven't seen this replica of Williamsburg you should take a trip over to Shelton Park School and see it.

Bayville Park Club

The Bayville Park Garden Club will meet Monday night, January 9th at 8:00 P.M. at the home of Mrs. R. M. Hickman 1913 S. James St. Arrangements will be judged. Mrs. L. L. Newby, of the Federation of Garden Clubs will be the speaker.

Shelton Park School News

Mrs. Katharine Wool's seventh grade class at Shelton Park School have created a replica of Williamsburg.

Virginia's seventh grade classes lack history texts on the State because a new textbook ordered by the General Assembly, is in process of being written.

Mrs. Wool's class began studying about Virginia from the very beginning when the first Englishmen landed on Virginia soil and followed research by a bus trip to Williamsburg.

Every member of the class was assigned different things to look for during the trip. When the class returned to school this information was used to construct the replica of Williamsburg and Jamestown, "exactly as we saw it."

The replica is made of construction paper painted with tempera paint. Streets were laid first and each building was put in its proper place. The scene includes figures of John Smith and Pocahontas.

"Around our little church we have made many graves, even the tombstones of the Rev. James Blair and his wife, Sarah Harrison," the class wrote in its report.

"The class has studied the truths on this project and while waiting for their order of material the class consulted encyclopedias, books and newspapers and magazines for historical information.

American College Of Radiology Announces Policy On Chest X-ray

Nation-wide policy aimed at guiding mass chest x-ray programs in this country was announced recently by the American College of Radiology. At the same time, the College policy statement pointed out that results thus far have been discouraging in the attempted detection of heart disease and lung cancer through use of x-ray screening procedures.

"In 1954 nearly 50,000,000 people will have some 120,000,000 x-ray films made," the College reports in issuing its statement. "A majority of these people will have their films made as part of a mass chest x-ray screening program."

"The purpose of establishing this policy is to offer the public the greatest possible medical service and at the same time establish and assure maximum safeguards." The college is the national medical association for the 4,000 radiologists in this country who specialize in the use of x-rays, radium and other active substances in diagnosis and therapy.

Chest x-ray surveys for detection of pulmonary tuberculosis, reports the College, are being conducted in the best interests of the public. On the local level, these surveys should be conducted to control and eliminate pulmonary tuberculosis.

In the case of controlling tuberculosis, the policy maintains that surveys, in order to be effective, require "prior arrangements for prompt follow-up medical examination and definitive diagnosis of all persons reported to have abnormal pulmonary x-ray shadows."

Also it emphasizes that "the size of the film used in the surveys is not of primary importance. The quality of exposure and processing is. The interpretation should be made by trained medical personnel."

Semiannual chest x-rays of persons over 45 years of age has resulted in the finding of a rather small number of controllable cases. The American College of Radiology does not at the present time recommend mass chest x-ray screening as a practical or effective method for the detection of cancer, the statement continued.

Chest x-ray surveys for the detection of communicable disease may be utilized for the detection of patients with lung cancer. The policy is recommended of reporting cardiovascular abnormalities of presumed clinical significance, where such are detected in survey films made for pulmonary disease, the statement went on.

Control of heart disease is the third, important part of the College's announced policy. Here the College reports "x-ray surveys have aided in the detection of occasional cases, but the number so discovered early does not warrant continuation of the x-ray survey as a primary method for the detection of cardiac disorders."

The policy recommends that "the most effective method for the detection of heart disease is believed to be regular clinical examination by a personal physician." Members of the College are urged, "by the College's announcement, to continue in their research efforts toward improving chest x-ray survey programs."

You Can Make Hens Lay Golden Eggs

It's not luck, but good management that is needed if a poultryman wants to be a real money maker in this business of egg production.

To help poultrymen determine costs, Cornell University devised a formula against which the farmer can determine his efficiency. They figured the cost of feed per dozen eggs is about 30¢, labor about 8¢. Feed comes to about 75% of the total! All the more reason why it is necessary to invest this feed money in a well-balanced, palatable ration that contains just so much—no more and no less—of the necessary vitamins, minerals and proteins needed.

In general, the more layers eat the more they will lay. Unbalanced feeds—too much of one element or another—is just so much waste. Insufficient diet elements mean lower egg production and, probably, sickly hens.

For many years, feed manufacturers, in cooperation with federal and state agencies, have developed scientific diets for all classes of livestock and poultry. A good feed has all of the elements in just the right proportions for maximum egg production at the lowest cost.

You can't make it too emphatic that rule of thumb procedures and unsound diets don't pay. The records of poultry and livestock producers have proven it many times over. Keep your own records and you will confirm the fact to yourself.

Try different brands of formulas, if you like. But when you find one that seems to give the best results—and if you keep production records as well as cost and income you will soon know—stay with that brand.

If it is packed in multiwall paper bags such as those made by Union Bag & Paper Corp., you will have the added assurance that the feed will also be clean and fresh. For feeds packed in paper— their flavor, color:

Hunters Urged to Use Gloves In Skinning Game

By Dr. James C. Wiekstrom,

A proved case of Tularemia in a resident of Princess Anne County has been reported to the County Health Department. One case in a human being means that the disease is probably quite widespread in small game, and hunters are urged to wear gloves when they skin and clean game. Man contracts the disease by handling infected animals, or by being bitten by parasites if infected animals, such as wood ticks or squirrel fleas. So far as is known, the disease does not spread directly from man to man.

Although 90% of human cases are traced to infected rabbits, numerous other forms of American wildlife have been found to be infected, including squirrels, opossums, deer, woodchuck, and quail. Hunters can protect themselves from this serious illness by carefully observing the following precautions:

1. Wear rubber gloves when dressing rabbits.
2. Cook rabbit meat thoroughly.
3. Use special care in skinning and cleaning of any game that was easily killed, since such animals may have been too sick and weak to run.
4. Do not rub eyes while cleaning game.
5. Thoroughly wash hands after cleaning game.

True ink from lampblack was believed to have been invented around 400 A. D. in China. The ink used by the Chinese has changed very little since that time.

State Businesses Asked To Help Jamestown Fund

Business and industry in Virginia are being asked for the first time to contribute to the building of visitors reception facilities at Jamestown and thus to a permanent memorial at the historic site where the "earliest industrial development by English-speaking colonists began nearly 350 years ago."

The first fund drive of its kind is being conducted by John S. Alford and Harry O. Nichols, Jr., of Norfolk, in Norfolk, Portsmouth, South Norfolk, Virginia Beach, and the counties of Norfolk, Princess Anne, Accomac and Northampton, as part of a State-wide campaign. The quota for the drive is $50,000.

The Federal and State governments, Colonial Williamsburg, Inc., and the College of William and Mary have allocated about $20,000,000 for permanent improvement in the Jamestown-Williamsburg-Yorktown area, it was noted, but to date private enterprise in Virginia has had no opportunity to contribute.

These improvements are being made in anticipation of the 350th anniversary celebration of Jamestown's founding, which falls in 1957.

Officials of the Jamestown Festival of 1957 pointed out that archaeological excavations at Jamestown have recently established that brick-making, pottery-making, glass-making, iron-working and lumber manufacture were carried on by the settlers from the earliest days of the colony.

Modern business and industry throughout Virginia is being asked to raise $250,000, to provide a parking lot, a reception center and other necessary facilities at Jamestown Festival Park, a 30-acre development which will be taken over by the State of Virginia after the celebration of 1957 as a permanent State park.

The glass industry of the nation has raised $100,000 to reconstruct the first glass works at the park, but the firms involved are all out-of-state ones.

—100% of total advertising expenditures went to printing in its various forms in 1954. In 1953 this amount was reduced to 82% with the balance being evenly divided between radio and television.

In Service Industries for the Printing Trade such as typesetters, engravers, etc. there are 2300 establishments, 34,000 employees, and an annual sales volume of about $350 million.

John W. Renard In Fleet Exercise

Navy Eng. John W. Renard, son of Capt. and Mrs. J. C. Renard of 8405 Atlantic Blvd., Virginia Beach, Va., aboard the destroyer USS George K. MacKenzie, participated in a 7th Fleet Task Force training exercise witnessed by Navy Secretary Charles Thomas.

Secretary Thomas, on a tour of Navy and Marine Corps activities in the Far East, arrived at the training site December 15 aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Bennington. During the exercise he boarded several task force units via highline rigged between ships.

The vessels demonstrated replenishment at sea while underway and participated in air and surface operations.

Public Hearing On New Bridge

The Virginia Department of Highways has requested Army Department approval of the location and plans of a new highway bridge proposed to be constructed across Lynnhaven Inlet immediately south of, or upstream from, the existing (Lesner) drawbridge crossing the Inlet in U. S. Route 60, Princess Anne County, Virginia.

A public hearing to consider the plans of the new bridge will be held in the Community House, Arctic Avenue and 18th Street, Virginia Beach, Virginia, at 8:30 A. M., Eastern Standard Time, on Thursday, 26 January 1956.

The plans submitted provide for a fixed structure, without a movable drawspan, to have a vertical clearance of 35 feet at mean high water, and a horizontal clearance of 80 feet between trestles in the navigation opening. The navigation opening would be placed about 275 feet eastward from the draw opening in the existing bridge. The existing bridge, which has a horizontal draw clearance of 31 feet, would be removed immediately upon completion of the new bridge.

World paper and board production in 1954 was $6,600,000 tons. North America produced 62% of this world output with 47% in the United States and 15% in Canada. U. S. paper production will increase from 26 to 28 million tons this year.

For your luncheon menu slice the top of each cream puff and fill with delicious Veal Almond. Here's the recipe and it'll make 6 to 8 servings.

Brown 1/4 cup of crushed pineapple slowly in 2 tablespoons butter or margarine for 5 minutes. Mix together 2 1/2 tablespoons of cornstarch with 1/2 cup pineapple juice. Then add the cornstarch mixture to 2 cups of hot meat stock. Cook over low heat and stir constantly until thickened. Boil the mixture for 2 minutes. Finally, add 2 cups of cubed cooked veal, 1/2 cup of toasted almond halves, 1/2 cup of chopped celery and 1 1/2 teaspoon of salt. Heat through and fill the cream puffs.

ed slightly, you're ready to add the eggs — you'll need four. Add one unbeaten egg at a time, beating well after each addition. This is about the most important single factor in making cream puffs. Be sure the batter is smooth with no suggestion of small lumps before you add the next egg. This insures optimum expansion during baking.

Here again the batter should be very stiff and hold its shape. If the mixture is thin at this point, you'll find that after baking the puffs, there will be no bottom layer or it will be so thin to hold a filling. This may happen if you've undercooked the lard, flour, and water mixture. It can usually be remedied by heating the batter in the top part of a double boiler and stirring until the proper consistency is reached.

If you're called to the phone or have to see what junior is up to, the batter can stand a few minutes before it is baked. Cover the sauce-pan or mixing bowl to prevent evaporation.

Next shape the batter on a greased cookie sheet by dropping it from a large spoon. Use a rubber scraper or spatula to help mold the puffs. Try to keep the batter in round, heaping shapes. A swirling motion with the scraper the batter a few inches apart to allow for the great expansion during baking. This recipe will make 12 to 14 cream puffs.

If you have a pastry tube, here's a good place to put it to use. Fill the tube with batter and swirl onto the cookie sheet. The batter will retain the imprint of the metal tip.

Bake the puffs in a moderately hot oven (400°F.) for 30 to 35 minutes or until they are a golden Shape on greased cookie sheet by dropping from spoon or using pastry tube. Bake in a moderately hot oven (400°F.) 30 to 35 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool 12 to 14 puffs.

The first step in cream puff making is adding 1/2 cup of lard to 1 cup of boiling water. One teaspoon of salt is added to the water too. You'll find lard will make the most tender, flaky pastry because it has the greatest shortening power of any plastic fat.

Heat the lard and water mixture until the fat has completely melted. Next add 1 cup of enriched flour all at once and stir vigorously. Keep the sauce-pan over a medium heat while you stir. The mixture will become very stiff and will tend to draw away from the sides of the pan. You've cooked and stirred it long enough when the mixture holds together and forms a ball in the center of the pan. The mixture should be stiff enough to retain the imprint of a metal spoon. (This cooking period usually takes two or three minutes.) Now remove the sauce pan from the burner and let the mixture cool.

HOME FIRE PREVENTION

No householder or family can take too many precautions to prevent the outbreak or spread of fire which, in the U. S. alone takes a toll of more than 10,000 human lives annually, the financial loss for the year 1953 was well over $903,400,000.

Statistics show there is a steady increase in fire losses in the United States since 1938; from 1938 to 1942 the increase was gradual, then it moved up sharply until 1949. In that year and again in 1950 a decline in losses appeared only to resume rising again in 1951.

These staggering figures could be greatly reduced if the housewife and the members of her family would adhere to the following simple rules:

Never allow rubbish, such as paper, rags, old clothing, boxes, etc., to accumulate in closets and unused rooms. Never fill cold oil lamps after dark or near an open fire. Never run stove pipes through a wooden partition or through the roof without proper protection. Never allow furnaces, stoves or hot water pipes to come in contact with wood.

Fiscal Report Shows War Vets Claims Climb Again In State

War veterans claims in Norfolk, Princess Anne County, South Norfolk, and Northampton-Acomack Counties on the Eastern Shore rose again in monetary values from July 1, 1954 through June 30, 1955. The fiscal report has been released by the Division of War Veterans Claims, operating under the Department of Law, Commonwealth of Virginia, responsible to the Honorable J. Lindsay Almond, Jr., Virginia Attorney General. The total figures for the area supervised from Norfolk was $1,299,289. The figures were revealed by local area director, Thomas A. Moore, with office at 205 McKewitt Building, 205 East City Hall Avenue, in Norfolk.

Moore says that the figures represent the over-all provable monetary gains that his office alone has assisted veterans and their survivors in obtaining during that fiscal year. The total does not include any recoveries obtained during previous years or any running awards, nor does it take into consideration any benefits that will be paid beyond June 30, 1955 on claims through some monthly benefits and annuities extend over for the life of the beneficiary. Such benefits which continue to be paid after the termination of the fiscal years are not considered next year either, so are never reported.

Harry F. Carper, Jr., Director of the Division, located on the premises of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Roanoke, adds that the 17 offices of the agency, located strategically throughout the State, reported a grand total of $13,763,686 for 1954-1955. This brings the combined total, computed by each separate area, for the period 1947-1955 to $65,280,761. The figures have increased each year from a little over $4 million to the grand total of $13 million plus, shown above. Previously reports were made on the calendar year basis, but the fiscal reports are now made because of the State's financial Reporting system, and are a result of the September 1955 hearing by the VALC sub-committee appointed by Governor Stanley to study the Division's activities.

Moore further revealed that the Norfolk award totaled more than all the remainder of his area, a figure of $415,497. The South Norfolk claimants received $109,391. Virginia Beach veterans, widows, orphans, and parents obtained $58,544, with another $61,382 shown received in Princess Anne County. The Eastern Shore territory shows Acomack County with $199,551, and Northampton County receiving $158,844. The veteran population in Norfolk, South Norfolk, and Norfolk County is approximately $1,600; and there are 6060 veterans in Princess Anne County. The veteran population of Acomack County is $390 and that of Northampton County is $228. In addition, Moore's office processes the claims of survivors.

Broken down in brief, Moore's office obtained $173,343 in disability compensation and pensions, $86,735 in death pensions and compensation, $184,112 in Government insurance awards, $161,118 in G. I. Bill and vocational rehabilitation awards, and $71,571 in burial allowance. Provable guaranties on loans under G. I. Bills were $541,384. American Legion child welfare was $2,800, and all miscellaneous forms, e.g., areas in service pay, mustering out pay, bonuses, etc. totaled $42,208.

Moore traveled 4,464 miles to itinerant points in Tidewater, and interviewed 7,277 claimants to assist them in processing and developing, as well as filing the claims that resulted in those gains. The office handled almost 17,000 pieces of mail. Appeals filed numbered 45. The State average of such denied cases appealed successfully was 18.84% granted. There were 450 disability claims, 275 death claims, 100 applications for VA hospital care, 688 applications for GI training programs, 214 insurance claims, 113 out-patient claims, and 1962 miscellaneous claims. The office procured and submitted 2322 instruments as evidence. Miscellaneous must not be overlooked, since many of the Division's services cannot be counted in dollars, but are nevertheless as important and necessary.

Over the State the Division operated on a reduced budget in REACH FUN . . . While two-thirds of the nation experiences frigid weather, pretty Beverly Davis invites all and sundry to play beachball at Miami Beach.

1954-55, and expended $196,392, which, when compared with the monetary gains from another angle shows that Virginia veterans received $70.08 for each tax dollar spent in operation of the Division. Moore says that, despite the out-bank of 5 offices in 1954 because of reduced appropriations, the volume of veterans claims and survivors claims is increasing steadily, and the offices are undermanned. For example Moore and one secretary constitute the Norfolk office force, whereas he noted that one local office in a smaller city, operated by the North Carolina Veterans' Commission had two service officers and three staff employees besides. Moore says that this situation is general in Virginia in every office of the Division. Even then, adequate service has been maintained, as is required by the State Codes under which the Division operates, though under pressure.

Some of the services rendered include filing, processing and developing claims; securing evidence and preparing it for presentation in support of claims; representation in person on claims by skilled men of experience located in VA and other offices; reviewing of claims; preparing appeals; providing invaluable humanitarian services on non-VA matters; filing non-Government applications for miscellaneous benefits administered by State and organizations; acting as counsel on legal problems only affecting veterans claims, but not acting as, nor having authority to act as an attorney; assisting guardianship VA cases; representing the War Claims Commission of the U. S. in Virginia for POWs; furnishing current information on veterans' rights and benefits to civic and organizational groups, and disseminating such information by news-mediums; serving as Reemployment Rights Committeemen for the U. S. Department of Labor; and many other accomplishments.

Virginia To Be Featured In Issue Of "Ford Times"

A painting of the three ships making a landing at Jamestown in 1607 has been selected for the cover of the all-Virginia edition of "The Ford Times."

Editors of the 64-page magazine have informed the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce officials that the painting was selected in keeping with the theme of the Jamestown Celebration. To be held in 1957. It will celebrate the 350th anniversary of the establishment of the first permanent British settlement in America at Jamestown.

The painting was made by Horace Day, Statunton artist who also will have four other pieces of art in the magazine, which will be distributed free by Ford dealers. Day's other four work-landscapes of the Shenandoah Valley, Marine's Museum, Byrd Mills and Gunston Hall-will be among 19 paintings and drawing of Virginia subjects in the magazine.

Day will be among 12 Virginia artists, 10 Virginia authors and five Virginia photographers who have contributed to the special edition.

The Virginia issue will mark the second time the magazine has devoted itself to one State. However, the edition will mark the first time that the magazine will have used material of one State exclusively.

Other art work to be featured in the magazine will be pictures of the Hampton Roads Anchorage, with the Norfolk Operations Base in the background, and a view looking north from the Virginia Beach fishing piers, both by Kenneth Harris, of Norfolk.

SPEAKING & CARDS

HIDDEN VALUES
Did you ever stop to consider that, in addition to the pleasure playing cards provide, there are other important values for everyone—children and grown-ups alike—in every deck of cards?

It might surprise you, for example, to learn that you can develop certain skills in your children merely by placing a deck of cards in their hands. Some child experts maintain that handling, shuffling and dealing the cards will help a child improve his manual dexterity. Cards, they explain, stimulate a child's recognition of letters, forms and numbers and later help teach him to count. Furthermore, they say, color recognition, arithmetic, skill, concentration and sportsmanship can be developed in an effortless and pleasant way through card games.

These same authorities tell us children also learn something about the basic principles of design when they build card castles or make card patterns. And, beyond these skills, many parents have found to their delight that simple card games, with their rules and traditional etiquette, are a strong factor in breaking children away from the selfish "I and me" and "That's mine!" stage of childhood.

What hidden values are there in cards for adults? According to psychologists, cards help the businessman to relax and forget the tensions of a trying day by requiring him to concentrate on playing a particular game. And, since card games are most often played by a group, they are among the few diversions left that a family can enjoy as a unit. They provide a common interest and common meeting ground for all the members from the youngest to the oldest.

Finally, according to the educators, card games parallel many of life's actual experiences—victories and defeats, problems and solutions, compromises and crises. Each player, given a set of limiting factors and allowed to work out his own destiny. The big difference, of course, is that no one gets hurt in a card game no matter how it turns out and everyone has fun.

THE NEW BEL AIR SPORT COUPE—one of 19 high-priced-looking Chevrolet models.

Who wouldn't mistake this handsome new Chevrolet for a high-priced car!

It looks strictly "upper bracket" with its bold new Motorama styling . . . its longer, lower hood . . . its proud new grille that spans the full front end.

Even the details would do credit to an expensive car . . . like the sleek, high-fashion taillights (the left one hides the gas cap!).

But, even beyond the costly appearance of its Fisher Body, Chevy gives the high-priced cars a run for their money. For it's one of the few great road cars built today!

It brings you the added security of nailed-down stability on turns and lightning acceleration for safer passing. Horsepower now ranges all the way up to 205! All engines now have hydraulic-hushed valve lifters.

Of course, Chevrolet has safety door latches in all models. In addition, you can have seat belts, with or without shoulder harness, and instrument panel padding at extra cost.

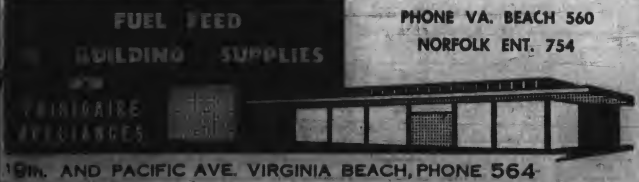

There's a new Chevrolet just made for you. So come in and highway-test it.

DARKNESS AHEAD

We live in a small patch of light with darkness all around. The future we do not know at all. A couple of embarking on married life cannot anticipate what changes and changes lie ahead of them. Despite antismoke tests no one can surely anticipate how a given occupation will work out for him. There is an element of risk in every choice we make.

During the Christmas week and 69 persons started out but did not arrive. They will never arrive for they are dead. They started out in the sure expectancy of arriving at their destination, but they did not get there. We feel this fact keenly as a New Year begins. What may lie ahead we do not know.

If someone could accurately and surely predict the stock market, he would pile fortune upon fortune. But not even the experts know for sure. It is said that Americans spend 100 million dollars a year on fortune tellers, a strolgers, palmists and the like. Those who can look at your palm or the shape of your ears or the arrangement of tea leaves and profess to tell you what lies ahead, to a startling business. Yet we do not know. They can tell us about our future—exactly nothing. Neither they nor anyone else can do that.

ANSWERS TO THE DARK
Why the darkness ahead? Because God has arranged it so. And why has He arranged it so? I venture this reply: God has done this so as to remind us of God-forsaken folk of how dependent we really are on Him.

At the start of a New Year we feel most keenly the uncertainty of our life. We are reminded of our past failures and we are anxious about the future. If we have only our own resources to depend on, this anxiety mounts to fevered pitch. Only one thing can free us from this fear—that is, belonging to the Lord who has the future under His control. We must turn to Him who alone can redeem our life from loss and from fear.

GOD'S POWER

"Fear not," says the Scripture's promise, "I have called you by your name; you are mine." This is the voice of the Lord. This is a cosmic personalizing that omits none.

Notice the categorical nature of the statement. The voice does not say: "I think it would be a nice thing if you would all decide to accept me and follow me." No, He says simply: "You are mine." We are His because we were created for Him.

This realization is not dimming and ominous. It is reassuring. He who has created all there is—He who maintains the world and sustains our very life—it is He who has called us and His we are, in that knowledge born of faith we can be secure.

What lies ahead for you? An operation with the chances fifty-fifty? What lies ahead? An incurable disease with your condition destined to become steadily worse and not better? What lies ahead? Is it success or failure? Is it pain or joy? Is it life or death? What lies ahead? What ever it is, He who has called you will be with you and you do not have to be afraid.

The International Association of Printing House Craftsmen, Inc. is the largest management organization in the printing and publishing industries with more than fourteen thousand members and one hundred and two local Craftsmen's Clubs.

Germantown, Pennsylvania, has the distinction of having had the first paper mill in America in 1690 and the first American printing press manufactured in 1750.

MODERN MEDICINES LOWER THE COST OF LIVING

Within the past ten years, many illnesses which, at best, meant long and costly convalescences now yield quickly and easily to the renowned "miracle drugs" of modern medicine. Hospital stays are shorter, or unnecessary. Medical bills are smaller because fewer doctor visits are required. Loss of income is less because recovery is faster and the patient returns to work much sooner. There are signs of the direct ways by which modern medicines lower the cost of living. Remember that the next time you pay for prescribed medicine and you will appreciate that it is the biggest bargain your money can buy.

NOT BY ACCIDENT

A baby doesn't "just happen." He is created through a slow and intricate process designed by God.

Neither does a delinquent "just happen." He, too, is created—gradually—by little wrongs and big, all human-caused.

Insecurity, improper associates or environment and lack of love often push a child into developing criminal tendencies.

Neglect, lack of guidance, lack of education and religious training cause him to weaken and become sick morally and spiritually.

Responsible mothers and fathers will endeavor to protect their children from these evils. They will love a child. They will supervise his activities, and see that he has adequate religious education.

Six Reasons Guide Choice Of Most Home Materials

How does the average family decide what materials to use in its home?

Price and recommendations of their builders are usually dominant factors. But what about the family that is considering new materials with which the builder may not be familiar?

The Insulating Siding Association has made a study of what influences home owners in their choice of materials. The study was prompted by the Association's interest in finding out why people buy the new overlap pattern of shake shingle insulating siding, the patterns accepted five years ago by F. H. A. for new construction.

- 1.—Color—They liked the wide range of colors in which the siding was available, finally settling on dark green.
- 2.—Easy Financing—When they went to their banker for mortgage loan, they found he knew about insulating siding, and accepted it without question.
- 3.—Adaptability to use with Other Materials—Insulating siding can be used effectively in combination with brick, wood and stone. One of these materials can be used to provide a decorative feature like the brick panel and planting box at the front.
- 4.—Ease of Maintenance—Insulating siding comes with a factory-embossed finish. It needs no painting or staining during its lifetime—a feature that appeals to young home owners who are busy with landscaping, interior decorating, and the miscellaneous carpentry and other chores that are part of living in a new home.

NEWS FOR VETERANS

More than 66,400 GI home loans totaling over $755,000,000 were guaranteed by the Veterans Administration during November, the second consecutive month that a new record was set for the 11-year-old GI loan program, VA announced.

In addition, GI home loan applications received in November continued at a record rate, while the number of homes for which VA received appraisal requests showed decrease.

During November, VA received 55,174 GI home loan applications from private lenders on behalf of veterans, the sixteenth straight month the rate has topped 51,000. However, VA received appraisal requests for 58,416 proposed and existing homes, 25 percent under the October figures of 71,241 homes.

VA said the decrease probably is due to three factors: (1) inability of builders to get advance commitments in the tightened money market; (2) seasonal, and (3) smaller number of workdays during the November reporting period, which ended in October.

Of the 53,416 homes for which VA received appraisal requests, 30,807 were proposed and 22,609 were existing homes.

The total of 66,400 loans guaranteed during November was three percent more than was guaranteed in the preceding month. The total for the first 11 months of 1955 was 594,326 loans, totaling over $6.5 billion. With one month yet to go, more loans already have been guaranteed during 1956 than in any previous year in GI loan history.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

I am taking farm training under the Korean GI Bill. I know that I must train full time, but is there any rule against doing a little outside work if it doesn't interfere with my training?

You may work for pay outside of your training, so long as you do not put in more than 180 hours during any 12-month period, and so long as the school finds that your outside work does not interfere with your studies.

What does VA consider a GI insurance premium to have been paid—the date I put the check in the mail or the date the check reaches VA?

The postmark date on the envelope is considered as the date the premium was paid.

Kitchen has Secret Of Farm Layout

The average American farmer could learn a great deal about good farmstead arrangement by studying the layout of his wife's modern kitchen, according to Harry L. Johnston, farm service director for the Insulating Siding Association.

"A modern, properly planned kitchen represents the ultimate in efficiency and convenience," Johnston pointed out, "with supplies and equipment all readily accessible, with work areas carefully laid out so that food preparation moves with the efficiency of a line."

"Although he's operating on a much larger scale, the farmer should follow the same principles in laying out his service buildings. They should be planned with storage close to the area of use, to make maximum use of labor-saving equipment. Lifting, scooping, forking, pushing and climbing aren't necessary on a truly modern farm."

Johnston said as much as 50 percent of the working hours on the average farm are spent doing chores and working around buildings.

"When this much time is involved, few farmers can afford the luxury of poorly arranged buildings. They reduce efficiency and destroy opportunity for profit, not to mention the unnecessary drudgery the results."

In the grain center, for example, Johnston recommended storage facilities be combined with a processing and feeding center so feed can move directly from storage bins to the livestock that consume it.

With machinery stored in a central building, repairs are easier to make, since tools and parts can be kept in the same place. But Johnston warned to provide plenty of flexibility in the machinery center because "ten years from now you'll probably have twice as much machinery as you have today, so there should be room for expansion."

Johnston pointed out that new farm buildings need not be overly expensive.

"New thinking in design has eliminated many of the costly construction features that were once considered essential, and the development of new, versatile building materials has also helped hold down construction cost."

As a specific example of the type of material to which he referred, Johnston mentioned insulating siding which has large, easy-to-handle panels that go in place quickly. They insulate the building—keeping out the heat in summer, retaining heat in winter—strengthen the walls and need no painting or staining during the lifetime. That item alone—the reduction of time required for maintenance—is important on the farm where every working hour should contribute to the farm's productivity.

The first practical American invention in printing was made by George Clymer in 1816 with his Columbian Press, which changed the application of pressure on the printing form from horizontally to vertically.

Martin, Lewis Make With Gags, Gals in Musical Artists and Models

The coolest comics of them all, Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, are in the hottest and most evasive spot they've ever been in—smack in the middle of acres of gorgeous models—as they crash the crazy world of art in their newest and most spectacular laugh barrage, "Artists and Models."

With their sights trained on a target that hasn't been under their hilarity-producing fire before—the nightmarish and gory comic book—Dean and Jerry don beret and smock and take up residence in Greenwich Village, the maddest artists ever in a community famed for its characters.

But ladies, vulture men interplanetary rockets, foreign spies, the FBI, and the most ludicrous models the screen has to offer parade riotously through the comedy kings' topsy-turvy lives, all of them—in best Martin and Lewis tradition—tripping along to hit tunes and gorgeous production numbers, while Dean and Jerry make a rollicking shambles of story book adventures that are out of this world.

Produced by Hal Wallis, who save us "3 Ring Circus," and many other top Martin and Lewis hits, "Artists and Models," opening January 11th at the Beach Theatre, co-stars Shirley MacLaine, Dorothy Malone and Eddie Mayehoff. As though Misses MacLaine and Malone weren't enough to satisfy any self-respecting art lover, Hal Wallis has added the bonus bonanza of Eva Gabor and Anita Ekberg. The costumes all four wear are the kind that have made artists' models famous for being gorgeous on the easel and easy on the eye.

Six top-drawer songs by Jack Brooks and Harry Warren, who wrote Dean's recent platter smash, "That's Amore," sparkle among the spectacular dance and production numbers.

Brilliantly directed by Frank Tashlin and filmed in Vista-Vision and color by Technicolor, "Artists and Models" promises the most unusual plot and comedy situations Dean and Jerry have as yet been involved in. With artist Dean's comic book plots coming straight from Jerry's wacky nightmares, and with Shirley MacLaine, portraying the "Bat Lady," being enthusiastically received as Jerry's feminine counterpart in comedy, "Artists and Models" stacks up as the most thoroughly enjoyable adventure in laughter and music of the season. We can't wait to see it.

In 1839 Joseph A. Adams, a wood engraver connected with Harper and Brothers, New York, conceived the idea of making electrotype from a wood cut. This was used for magazine illustrations in 1841.

Steel Making Capacity Increased

For the ninth year in succession, steel companies have increased the annual steelmaking capacity of the United States—to a new, record high total of 128,828,000 net tons as of January 1, 1956, according to Benjamin F. Fairless, president, American Iron and Steel Institute today (December 30).

Mr. Fairless reported that steel companies' large scale expansion and improvement programs brought about a capacity net gain of 2,534,780 tons as compared to the total announced one year ago. The capacity on January 1, 1955 was 126,293,220 net tons of ingots and steel for casting annually.

With that increase, the steel companies have raised the capacity of the world's largest steel industry nearly 36.5 million tons or close to 40 per cent in the past World War II era, according to Mr. Fairless. The expansion programs are continuing, he pointed out.

To support the rise in steel-making capacity, other producing facilities in the industry have been expanded and improved.

said Mr. Fairless. Blast furnace capacity went up 1,614,100 net

2,413,278 tons at the start of 1955.

Be Careful Of War Trophies

Ever hear of a "dewat"?

The word has just been coined by the Alcohol & Tobacco Tax Division of the Internal Revenue Service.

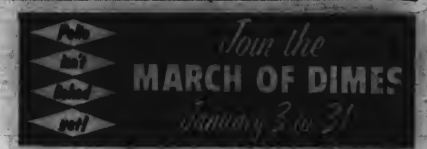

In plain English, the word "dewat" means a deactivated war trophy, such as, foreign-made-machine guns which have been put in a permanent non-shooting condition.

To most Americans, the war seems long ago—as far removed from reality as an unpleasant nightmare. But, in many American homes, the result of war linger on. Through the greatest kind of negligence at this very moment, an innocent child may be killed because he has picked up a war trophy which is still in shooting condition.

A great percentage of the foreign-made firearms which were brought or sent back to this coun-tons during the past year and as of January 1, 1956 rated at $5,485,230 tons annually. The industry's by-product coke capacity is now rated at $9,416,400 net tons a year, a slight gain over 1955. Finishing mill facilities have been expanded and improved. Much work has been done to increase the supply of raw materials.

The new weekly steel capacity figures, on which the steel industry's weekly operating rate will be figured starting with the first announcement, January 3, is 2,401,893 net tons of ingots and steel for castings, compared with 2,413,278 tons at the start of 1955.

try-home-bound G.I.'s was manufactured during the stress of war. They were constructed of inferior materials and with-out the traditions of craftsmanship. They were not designed for use with the more powerful American-made ammunition.

Among other things, the National Firearms Act provides that all firearms of the fully automatic type must be registered—the interests of national safety. Treasury's Alcohol & Tobacco Tax is now conducting a drive to enlist the cooperation of the public in making "dewats" out of war trophies of the machine gun type.

The war has long since been over, but its souvenirs of death are still with us. These foreign-made weapons are not all instruments to destroy life but are also dangerous to the person firing them. Their value as souvenirs will not be diminished by making the "un-shootable."

Alcohol & Tobacco Tax Investigators whose address is Room 341 Post Office Bldg. Norfolk, Va. are available and anxious to give advice concerning war trophies and to render expert assistance in their proper deactivation.

Fox Talbot, who in 1839 had discovered a process for making photographs on paper, fourteen years later practiced the method of breaking up the surface of a printing plate by exposing the sensitized metal under an open mesh. This was the genesis of the halftone.

Destroyer Basilone Is Freed By Joint Salvage Effort Of Army-Navy

Navy salvage efforts supported by Army personnel of Army Transportation Corps, succeeded yesterday in freeing the Escort Destroyer Basilone from her landing perch near the beach at Fort Story. The destroyer had been aground for 6 days.

The Basilone was towed to the Norfolk Naval Shipyard at Portsmouth by the fleet tug Atakapa.

The vessel was pulled off the sand shortly after 1 A.M. yesterday morning by two navy salvage ships. She reported herself afloat at 6:35 A.M. as the salvage vessel was applying dunnage to her for preparation of maximum effort at high tide at about 7 A.M.

A combination of abnormally high winds caused by several days of strong winds, and puffing by the salvage ships set the destroyer free.

Salvage efforts had been continued on the fleet tug Seneca yesterday afternoon. The tug had been around near the beach since Saturday. Navy officials planned to try to pull her into deeper water at high tide shortly after 7:00 P.M. yesterday, weather permitting.

The Basilone was driven aground by high winds about 4:15 A.M. last Thursday. She rested approximately 75 yards from shore almost directly opposite the Ft. Story Officers Club, in which the control center for salvage operations has been located.

High winds and heavy surf forced the Seneca too close to the beach the following Saturday at 6:15 p.m. as she was trying to assist in the fourth and most recent effort to free the Basilone.

The tug was 50 yards from shore and about 100 feet astern of the stranded destroyer.

A short time after the tug went aground, Navy officials in charge of salvage operations halted efforts to free either ship until the weather moderated.

No crewmembers had been evacuated from either ship early last Thursday, and Navy officials were anxious that the ships and their crews were in no danger.

Upon learning that the Basilone was aground at Ft. Story, Brig Gen. Rush B. Lincoln Jr., commanding general of Ft. Story and the Transportation Training Command, authorized Ft. Story to use all available resources to assist the Navy. Ft. Story is the home of the Fifth Transportation Terminal Command, an organization of the Transportation Training Command.

Thus far, Ft. Story had supported the salvage operation with approximately 360 men, 60 DUKWs and two 94 and one-half-ton BARCs. The DUKWs and BARCs, both wheeled amphibious vehicles, were used to carry personnel, supplies, equipment and fuel and water lines to the stricken ships.

Two BARCs hauled 130 tons of ammunition from the Basilone when it was decided to lighten the ship by side planting the ammunition from the destroyer to the BARC. The giant amphibians also applied their pushing and pulling power to the Basilone during two unsuccessful attempts to free her.

A single BARC and several DUKWs continued to operate in wind-driven seas yesterday afternoon.

In addition to the crews of both grounded ships, the Navy has called in a 50-man beach working party from Destroyer Flotilla Four, parent organization of the Basilone. The Basilone carries 220 men and the Seneca 60. They center for the operation is the game room of the Ft. Story Officers Club. The Navy task group conducting the operation and Army coordinating officers have their headquarters there. Both grounded ships are clearly visible through large windows in the room.

In commenting on the Army's support, Capt. J. S. Dorsey, USN, on beach commander of the salvage operation, said, "I can't say enough about the men who are taking those amphibians into the surf."

He added, "Army personnel and equipment have done a terrific job for us."

1st Lt. J. F. Leonard, officer in charge of salvage operations, said the Basilone, called the help given by Ft. Story "tre-mendous."

Capt. J. H. Campbell, USN, commander of the Harbor Defense Force at Little Creek Naval Station, said the Basilone was a "successful one." Capt. Campbell had been assisting in the direction of operations almost continuously since last Thursday.

Navy officials emphasized that the Basilone was still their primary concern. They planned to employ four salvage vessels when better weather permitted another attempt to free her.

Shrine Beach Club Property Deal Pending

Sale of the old Shrine Beach Club for a reported $100,000 to $125,000 is expected within the next few days.

Representatives of the Association for Research and Enlightenment, Inc., are negotiating with the Ocean Corporation, present owners, it was reported this week.

High Lynn Cayce, son of the late Edgar Cayce, founder of the association, said the report was "reasonably correct."

Cayce said the association will move its headquarters from Arctic Circle to the club building after the purchase is consummated.

Built in 1924-25, the structure was built in 1924-25 by Fred A. Haycox, one of the present owners, and his late father, E. J. Haycox, for Edgar Cayce, founder of the association.

Lying between 67th and 68th Streets, the property fronts 300 feet on Atlantic Avenue and extends 500 feet back to Seashore State Park.

The purchase would take the club and the property west of Atlantic Avenue. The tract extends to the ocean. The part east of the avenue was the planned site of the foundations of buildings designed for the school but never completed because of the depression of the early 1930's.

The club building was first used as a hospital. Then it was successively the Terrace Beach Club, the Hileret Beach Club, the Princess Pat Hotel, the Shrine Beach Club, and, more recently, the "Continued on page four"

George Meredith, Local Merchant, Dies In Florida

George Minor Meredith, 84, of 53rd Street, Virginia Beach, died Sunday at 2:15 p.m. at the Good Samaritan Hospital, West Palm Beach, Florida after a short illness. He had been in Lantana, Florida at his winter home for a month.

Mr. Meredith was a native of Stafford County, the son of the late Rev. Jacobin Meredith and Ellen Bankhead Meredith of Stafford County House, and had been a resident of Virginia Beach since 1902.

Beach, County Vote 8-5 For Convention

Voters in Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach were better than 8-5 in favor of the County Commission constitutional amendment plan in Monday's special referendum.

For a constitutional convention, 4,747.

Against a convention, 2,104.

Rain, sleet and snow—made roads difficult to travel—was blamed for keeping the total vote turnout at only 6,851. It was considered a moderate turnout for an area famous for political activity.

In the county, the turnout total was 5,646, with 3,800 for the convention, and 1,846 against. There were 16 void ballots.

Virginia Beach, with a 1,770 turnout, split 887 for the convention, to 883 against it.

Political leaders had forecast there would be no record vote, and that the voters would favor amending the Constitution.

Every precinct in each of Princess Anne's five magisterial districts favored the convention. Only in the Kempsville District and the Lynnhaven District was there any sign of real resistance to the amendment plan.

Oceanic Precinct, in Lynnhaven, provided the closest contest. The vote there was 284 and 216.

In the Kempsville District, the opponents varied sharply in different precincts. At Bayside the count was 478 to 340, and at Little Creek it was 181 to 145. Tina Precinct, where proponents have cheered this season, the closest plan with a 776 to 16 vote.

At Precinct 1, the vote was 150 to 150 in favor of the convention. At the record, the turnout was 150 in favor of the convention.

Only one precinct was unknown. That was Little Westhampton. In the Fungo District, where few persons represented the total precinct vote. The count was 3-5 for the convention.

Liz Montgomery Makes Debut In The Court Martial Of Billy Mitchell

There are times when having a famous actor for a father can be annoying to a young actress on her way up the ladder of success. Comparisons, whether fair or unjust are continually being made. Nobody realizes this better than pert and talented Elizabeth Montgomery.

Her ability has already been measured against her father's after her first performance in the Warner Bros. film "The Court-Martial of Billy Mitchell," starring Gary Cooper, which opens Jan. 18th at the Beach Theater.

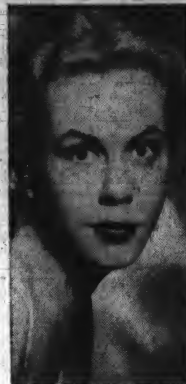

Robert Montgomery is such a prominent figure in Hollywood that it was natural for people to start asking her about her father as soon as she began work on the CinemaScope and WarnerColor film and her first photographs began to appear in the newspapers.

"Dad has been in hundreds of screen closeups during his years as a star," said Elizabeth. "His face is familiar to almost everyone."

Liz doesn't look like her father. She has green eyes while his are blue. She has a turned up nose while his is straight. However, most of the people on the set remarked that her smile reminded them of her father's. Although she has been a professional actress for only two years, she already has her father's sureness of manner and his deft humorous touch, according to studio observers.

Expected people would begin comparing us as soon as I got to Hollywood, but I thought there couldn't be any points of likeness, because I was a daughter and not a son.

Elizabeth, a 22-year-old blonde, has been in a Broadway play and TV dramas. In "The Court-Martial of Billy Mitchell," she is the only woman in the cast which is headed by Cooper, Charles Bickford, Ralph Bellamy and Rod Steiger.

She plays the wife of the commander of the Navy dirigible Shenandoah and appears as the key witness in Mitchell's trial.

Otto Preminger directed the film and Milton Sperling produced the U. S. Pictures production for Warner Bros., which is based on one of the most shocking military trials in American history.

JANUARY PLENTIFULS

Pork, beef and grapefruit are the trio that take top place in the U. S. Department of Agriculture's January list of plentiful foods.

With both pork and beef in such abundance, shoppers will find a wide variety of kinds and cuts of these meats to suit family taste and budget. Pork cured and fresh, will continue to be a good buy. All kinds of beef will be plentiful, especially the higher grades.

As for grapefruit, it's a buy not only for refreshing flavor and texture but also for that vitamin C everybody needs every day. The crop of 43-1/2 million boxes is well above last year's production. January grapefruit will come mainly from Florida but also from the Southwest. The fruit promises to be of very good quality. Another citrus fruit that deserves the shopper's attention this month is the tangerine. For distinctive flavor, easy peeling and eating out of hand this so-called "kid-glove orange" is tops. It makes a nice choice for the lunch box, and for the kinds when they come home from school. This year tangerines will be selling more widely on markets, and families generally should know that they are more than a Christmas treat. Still other plentiful fruits for the month are winter pears, with the Anjou variety most abundant on January markets.

Potatoes also deserve a place on the shopping list next month. The late-crop potatoes, so good for baking and mashing, as well as boiling, are in heavier supply last year and will be on markets now until spring.

Especially if you're one of the people whose calcium quota is low, the new year is the time to step up your use of milk and milk products. An increased production of milk and dairy products is expected in 1956. Production of eggs in the new year is expected to be larger than this year, but demand for eggs also is expected to be high.

Continuing in plenty will be vegetable fats and oils. For the fish dish, supplies of canned tuna continue large.

DOES IT PAY TO SEW?

In recent experiments, findings indicate money savings are substantial in relation to the time spent. Obviously, however, the homemaker must personally decide the savings from home sewing are big enough to make it worth the time lost from other activities.

In studies of cotton street dresses, ready-to-wear garments in sizes 14 and 20 — the more commonly purchased sizes — and costing around $10 were obtained. Commercial patterns that were very similar in style to the ready-to-wear dresses were selected, and fabrics, trim, and type and quality of construction were matched as nearly as possible to the ready-to-wear garments.

With an experienced seamstress doing the sewing in a laboratory, equipped like a sewing room in a home, where equipment is all set up, total time spent making the street dresses ranged from about two and a half hours to three and a half hours. (These total times excluded interruptions.)

Factors that could alert the time used in home sewing include, of course, such things as the experience of the seamstress and whether the seamstress knows sewing shortcuts.

District money savings—the difference between the cost of the ready-to-wear dresses and the amount the homemaker would spend for the fabrics, trimmings, belts, fasteners, thread, pattern, and power to run the sewing machine and iron — were about $5.

The home economists point out that indirect sewing costs, such as the cost of the machine and sewing equipment, depreciation on the equipment, and space for sewing were not calculated in the studies. If the equipment is used often, the expense of owning it would spread over many articles made, adding little to the total cost, they explain.

Studies of cotton house dresses, also in sizes 14 and 20, and in a price range commonly found in stores showed that savings from home sewing of similar garments were not proportionately as great as in the case of street dresses. It took a little less time, however, to make the house dresses than it did to make the street dresses.

In other words, the more expensive a garment the more you save. Also the more of any garment you need, the more you save by home sewing.

For Want of A NAIL The BATTLE WAS LOST

Remember the old saying—for want of a nail a shoe was lost, for want of a shoe, a horse was lost, for want of a horse, a general was lost; for want of the general, a battle was lost? We recall this to emphasize that many a battle to save a life has been lost for want of a specific drug at the right time. To guard against this, we keep in stock over 2,000 prescription drugs and chemicals among which are the new "wonder-working" drugs of modern medicine. We can supply whatever medication a doctor may prescribe—and we are ready, and willing and able to speed it to the patients home in an emergency.

Fine And Faithful Servants

Two men who have made an enviable record in public life in Princess Anne County, retired from elective office at the end of 1955. Paul W. Ackiss, who had served as Commonwealth's Attorney for 24 years, returns to the private practice of law at Virginia Beach, and D. Jonathan Vaughan, after a record of 16 years in public office, declined to run for re-election as Treasurer on advice of his personal physician.

Mr. Ackiss' desire to step down from public life is understandable after having served faithfully for so many years. The people of the County, this area and the State, have long recognized the able work of Mr. Ackiss and he is certainly leaving the Commonwealth's Attorney's office with the sincere best wishes of all the people concerned.

Voters of Va. Beach and Princess Anne County elected Robert S. Wahab, Jr., last fall to fill the shoes of Mr. Ackiss. Mr. Wahab brings into public life of our city and county, a fine background — a man who is capable and well equipped to succeed Mr. Ackiss. His complete fitness was shown by the strong endorsements of his fellow attorneys at the time of his announcement for this office, and more particularly with the large majority of votes that he received in the election.

Mr. Vaughan, a life-long resident of Princess Anne County, first served as clerk to the Trial Justice Court at Princess Anne. In January 1944 he was appointed sheriff and in 1947 was elected to a full term as sheriff without opposition. Mr. Vaughan was appointed Treasurer of the County succeeding Sidney S. Kellam, who resigned, in June 1950. In the election of 1951, Mr. Vaughan was elected to a 4-year term, and which he held until his voluntary retirement from elective office at the end of the past year.

Probably no finer tribute could be paid Mr. Vaughan than to say that after all these years in public office, even those of opposing political views conclude that this man has been a fine and faithful servant. He established a splendid record of service for all the people of our county.

Mr. Vaughan will take it a "little easier" in the job of Chief Deputy Sheriff, an appointment in the office of Sheriff John E. Marr, Jr. Succeeding Mr. Vaughan as Treasurer of Princess Anne County is V. Alfred (Jack) Etheridge, an able man who has served his county and state well. Since 1953 he has served as secretary to the county Board of Supervisors, and the past four years as State Senator.

We cannot pass the opportunity of saying a few words of praise for the other two officers elected last fall. Mr. Ivan D. Mapp, Commissioner of Revenue, Mr. John E. Marr, Jr., Sheriff and Mr. John V. Fentress, Clerk of the Court. Mr. Mapp is beginning his second term in the revenue post. During his first term he made a fine record and experienced the county's fastest growth. His efficiency and friendliness in office is recognized by the entire population of the county. In Mr. Marr, we have a well known church, business and civic leader, who sought his first public office. He will reflect credit and honor to the office of sheriff of Princess Anne County.

Mr. Fentress, who was elected in 1950 for an eight year term, is handling the official record business of the county and the court in the most efficient and economical way. New and modern equipment is being installed as needed to accurately record the many official papers coming to his office, to keep abreast of the fast growth of the county and this area.

We say "thanks" for a well done job to Mr. Ackiss and Mr. Vaughan — and we salute their successors, Mr. Wahab and Mr. Etheridge. With these two fine men with Mr. Mapp, Mr. Marr and Mr. Fentress, we have a fine and workable team, working for all the people, and to build a finer and better Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach.

The Challenge To Volunteers

NFIPeople everywhere are catching up the challenge of the Victory March of Dimes — the one to be dated 1956 A. V. (after vaccine.)

The approaching campaign holds special interest for all our volunteers in the unfinished battle against polio. Actually, they have the enviable opportunity of helping to make medical care history by raising funds to keep alive, or bring back toward normal health, the 68,000 patients on NFIP Chapter rolls.

After a successful 1956 drive for those patients born too late for the vaccine's protection, you will look back on that particular January as one of the most satisfying periods in your life. You can say, truly, as Abou Ben Adhem said to the Recording Angel, "write me down as one who loves his fellowmen."

about $229,000,000 — more than three times the amount ten years ago. During the year additions to facilities were completed in many exchanges throughout the Company's territory. These included every phase of operations from rural line extensions to large construction projects and new buildings to house modern dial central offices. Four new dial central offices were placed in operation including Brokenburg in Spotsylvania County, Montvale in Bedford County, Annadale in Fairfax County and White Oak in Dinwiddie County. Major central office equipment additions were made at Portsmouth, Falls Church, Kinross, Fairfax, Rosslyn, Alexandria, Loudoun, Richmond, Salem and Staunton. Buildings to house dial central office equipment were completed at Leesburg and Providence Forge.

The Company's new office building in Richmond was completed during the latter part of the year. Several departments, including all of the Accounting functions were installed in the new quarters in December.

Large construction projects under way at the end of the year included new buildings at Danville, Onancock, Remington and Williamsburg. These will house new central office equipment when the respective projects are completed to change these offices from manual to dial operation.

The Company also continued its program to improve efficiency through further mechanization of its operations and the introduction of other economies in methods and equipment. Further progress was made in converting our exchanges to the Nationwide Uniform 2-Letter 5-Numerical System — the plan that eventually will enable customers to dial their own long distance calls directly. At year's end more than 40% of our telephones were numbered.

218,000 telephones were connected and 150,000 were disconnected for a net increase of 68,000 bringing the total operated by the Company at the end of the year to more than 779,000. The year's increase in telephones is the greatest in any twelve month period in the Company's history. Included in this number are 93,000 extension telephones located in residences, an indication of our customers' desire for convenience of telephone service in the home.

Of the 9,400 employees of C. & P. of Virginia, 1,300 had twenty years or more of Bell System service, indicating the high degree of experience with resulting know-how and efficiency of the people furnishing telephone service in Virginia. The total wage and salary bill for employees was $27,460,000 — a substantial addition to the local economy of the many communities that we serve.

Taxes continued to be the second largest expense item exceeded only by wages. The 1955 tax bill of $16,600,000, which included Federal, State and local taxes, was by far the highest in the Company among the largest taxpayers in Virginia. These taxes were higher by 25% than in 1954 and eight times the amount of taxes in 1946 — the first postwar year.

During the course of the year the Company placed in service more than 900 new public telephones booths most of which were "The Company's program for 1956, Mitchell said, is geared to even greater achievements in all phases of telephone service to continue to meet the tremendous demand for telephone service by Virginia's residential and business customers. It is expected that next year's program will even outdistance the record achievements of 1955 in the Company's effort to keep pace with Virginia's economy. Virginia's industries are expanding to take care of increased consumer demand. New industries are coming into the state and the resulting increased telephone service requirements are being met by continued expansion of telephone facilities."

NEWS FOR VETERANS

The Veterans Administration has announced a change of policy concerning the deadline date for returning by pensioners of the annual Income Questionnaires form which is mailed out near the first of each year to disable persons receiving the non-service connected pension, and to the widow and minor children of deceased veterans who are on the VA's pension roll. The law provides that the pension for total and permanent disabilities not incurred in service may not be paid to an unmarried person whose annual income exceeds $1,400, nor to any married person nor to a person with minor children whose annual income exceeds $2,700. The same income limitations apply to widows and children of wartime veterans who die of non-service connected causes.

Heretofore the VA has been sending out the Income Questionnaire on or about the beginning of each calendar year, and if not returned by the pensioner within 30 days, the VA has been mailing a second questionnaire and allowing an additional 30 days before discontinuing the pension. The policy change put into effect this year provides that failure to return the questionnaire within 30 days from the date it was mailed will cause payment of the pension to stop immediately. Payments will not be resumed until a satisfactory Income Questionnaire reaches the VA.

Any interruption of the orderly flow of checks will cause hardship to most pensioners. To avoid inconvenience those who receive the questionnaires are urged to fill them in completely and return them at once to the VA office which sent them.

Diamond Springs Christian Church News:

Sunday, January 8th, marks the first anniversary of the Rev. John W. Johnson, as pastor of the Diamond Springs Christian Church.

Mr. Johnson, a native of Steubenville, Ohio, followed his father's footsteps in entering the ministry. His father, who has but recently retired from active work, took a pastorate in Bluefield, West Virginia, where Mr. Johnson has spent most of his life. His mother was a teacher of Bible in the public schools and he says that he is one of a family of six children.

Mr. Johnson graduated from Lynchburg College in 1946 and received his B. D. degree from Yale University Divinity School in 1948.

The pastor considers that the work at Diamond Springs began as a "grass-roots movement." He said that in 1953 the people in the community felt the need for a Sunday School and started their meetings in the Bayside School.

After the preliminary work had been done by the laymen the church affiliated with the Disciples of Christ and began to look upon the First Christian Church, Disciples, on Colonial Avenue, as the sponsoring group.

Mr. Johnson recalled that pulp supply work was done for several months by the Rev. Floyd A. Leggett, pastor of the Norfolk Church. In the summer, the Rev. William Whitehurst served.

In late 1954 the congregation decided to call a minister and Mr. Johnson, who was at Richmond, was the choice of the membership.

"It is hoped that the first unit of the church building will be erected during 1956," Mr. Johnson said.

The Rev. Mr. Johnson is married to the former Mary Frances Shuler of Shenandoah. She is a graduate of Madison College and has done graduate work at the University of Virginia. Having been a teacher for five years, Mrs. Johnson taught at Bayside School last year. The Johnsons have one son, John Mark, who is two months old. They reside on Norfolk Road in Diamond Springs.

FORT STORY TELLINGS

The annual March of Dimes parade in the City of Virginia Beach, directly adjacent to Fort Story, again saw the post represented by a color guard and a company of troops in the lengthy procession. The men, all from the 370th Transportation Battalion, were picked members of the 604th 605th and 612th DUKW Companies and the 370th Terminal Service Company. The 370th's 1st Lt. John G. Jones was in command of the composite unit.

Sports Activity at Story, at a standstill since Dec. 17th because of holiday furloughs, is scheduled to pick up this week as the intramural basketball and bowling leagues get underway. The officers' bowling league also will resume activity at the post alleys. First bout of the new year for Story's basketball team will see it matched against Norfolk Naval Base, with 2d Lt. Jimmie D. Pace again leading the group.

Story's parents were notified this week that a limited amount of Salk vaccine for immunization against polio will be available for dependent children of Army personnel. Lists of youngsters aged four through nine inclusive will be given to the Post Surgeon, and when the immunization program begins the six-and-seven-year olds who have not been immunized elsewhere will receive first attention.

Officers' wives at Story held their first meeting of the New Year in the Colonial Room of the Officers' Open Mess. The event was an evening affair, following

Seahawks To Play Churchland At Stadium on Friday

The Virginia Beach Seahawks will play the "strong" Churchland Trainers tomorrow night at the high school gym. The preliminary game will be between the two school's J. V. teams.

The varsity contest will start at 8:00 o'clock. This game proves to be one of the biggest games in Tidewater.

This is the first time the Seahawks quint will play against the Trainers this year.

Having played their first conference game against Great Bridge, the Seahawks are going into this game well prepared.

Brian Zittrain, high scoring Seahawk center, will be having a good battle against Jim Jenett, 6 foot 5 inch Trucker center.

Brian Zittrain has hit for 119 points in five games and is tied with Butch Lambriotte of Warwick for the state scoring lead.

Due to the fact that the Virginia Beach High School gym seats only 800, patrons should come early since an overflow crowd is anticipated.

Virginia Beach, behind the 33-point scoring performance of center Brian Zittrain, whipped Great Bridge, 83-67, for the Seahawks' first victory in the Nor-Port Division of District One, Group Two.

Zittrain tossed in 11 field goals and 11 foul shots for his 33-point total and collected 12 rebounds. Bob Keville took runner-up scoring honors for the Virginia Beach Wildcats with 20 tallies. Jack Palmer was next for Great Bridge with 14.

Forward Bob Lemmon led the Wildcats with 20 tallies. Jack Palmer was next for Great Bridge with 14.

GARDEN GUIDE

BY BARTOW H. BRIDGES, JR.

Landscaping The Small Lot

There is more of a challenge to landscaping a small piece of property than a large one. This is because with the area reduced, any undesirable details are more obvious. In working out the design of a large area, there is more room for poor design or unwise choice of plants.

If the property is surrounded by other small lots, then probably the first consideration will be to create at least partial privacy. This is particularly desirable in the area to be utilized as an outdoor living room. Privacy can be created by walls, fences, and/or plant screens. There are advantages to both man-made and plant barriers. For example, plant barriers are less expensive than most walls or fences. Brick walls require very little maintenance. Wood fences and plants do require maintenance in varying degrees.

On a small lot, locating the outdoor living room leaves little choice except the back yard. This is best anyway, because it gives the seclusion usually desired for lounging in outdoor chairs. The back yard can also be more readily utilized for a porch to patio lawn transition which is probably the ideal outdoor living room.

Marine Aviation Started In 1912

Marine aviation was officially born May 23, 1912, when First Lieutenant Alfred A. Cunningham reported to the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., for duty "in connection with aviation."

The lieutenant had been interested in flying since 1903, when he first took to the air over his native Georgia with a traveling balloonist. In 1911, while stationed at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, he rented a home-made flying machine from its inventor and persuaded the commandant of the Navy Yard to let him test there. The machine was christened "Noisy Nan" because of the din raised by its motor-boat type engine. Cunningham never got the contraption into the air, but he did get himself into a bit of hot water about this time.

He had joined the Aero Club of Pennsylvania, and shortly afterward the members began pressing their Congressman to get a Marine flying field for Philadelphia. The lieutenant's supervisors discovered his connection with the club and Cunningham finally admitted that he was behind the campaign. Although the Marine Corps took a dim view of this maneuver, it granted Cunningham the orders which took him to the Navy's new aviation camp at Annapolis. From there, he was ordered to the Burgess-Curtiss air factory at Marblehead, Mass., where he solved August 1, 1912, after two hours and 40 minutes of instruction.

From its one-man beginning, Marine aviation grew to a strength of 125,162 men and women and five air wings, consisting of 31 air groups and 145 squadrons at its World War II peak. Marine flyers have seen action in both World Wars, the Haitian, Santo Domingo and Nicaraguan campaigns and the Korean conflict. They shot down 2,382 Japanese planes in World War II, and in these sorties were in close air support of ground troops—a Marine specialty which typifies the teamwork between Leathernecks in the air and on the ground.

1956 CHRYSLER 300B FEATURES 340 HORSEPOWER

A new, more-powerful 1956 model of the car which won both NASCAR and AAA Stock Car Championships in 1955 is the Chrysler 300B, the highest-powered car in America. It features a 340-horsepower Chrysler FirePower V-8 engine, special road-hugging suspension, an overall height of 58.6 inches, special leather "cockpit" interior and simple chrome treatment.

New 340 Horsepower Chrysler Previewed by National Press Group

The highest-powered car in America — the 340-horsepower Chrysler 300B — was previewed by a national press group recently.

"The Chrysler 300B is designed to continue the standard set by the 1955 Chrysler 300 — maximum performance for the American road," said E. M. Braden, general sales manager, Chrysler Division, Chrysler Corporation.

"The 300B is powered and geared for peak pickup in traffic, top performance in middle range speeds and the ability to overtake and pass cars ahead and get back into line in the shortest, safest time possible."

The broad, low hood downswipe between sharply defined fenders and projecting headlights provides a close-in view of the road. The bold, box-check grille extending across the front of the car emphasizes width and lowness. Following the 300's mood, no hood ornament is used. Wheel openings are prominent and point up the racing wheel-cover design.

The Chrysler 300B will be available in cloud white, red, and black exterior finishes. Chrome is simple and checkered-race-finish flag background identifies the car.

The 300B is offered with a complete range of gear axle ratios. Special spring suspension with lower spring heights gives it an overall height of 58.6 inches and a low center of gravity. High spring rates give a well-controlled ride and heavy-duty shock absorbers prevent bottoming on rough roads.

Interior Finished In Natural Leather

The 300B interior, finished in natural leather, has a cockpit appearance due to the overhanging safety pad which extends over the instrument panel. Controls, including push-buttons for Power-Flite equipped 300B's, are housed in the recess created by the lip of the safety pad.

Circular dials straddle the steering column. The speedometer is calibrated to 150 miles per hour.

The 300B has a 126-inch wheelbase, an overall length of 222.7 inches and a width of 74.3 inches. Where fast cornering is desired wide-rim wheels are available. Nylon racing-type tires are used.

The 300B will have its premier public showing at the Chicago Automobile Show from January 6-15, 1956.

The Printing Industry ranks Ninth among the nation's top twenty manufacturing industries in total number of employees with more than 780,000 workers employed.

Norwegian Ship Trains Locally

The crew of the Norwegian coastal mine sweeper Sira began training at the Fleet Training Center in Norfolk today after arriving in Tidewater last week from New York.

The ship was commissioned in New York last November under the Mutual Defense Assistance Program as a Norwegian Navy vessel. Her six officers and 34 men will be in the area about three weeks.

After a week of instruction ashore with the Fleet Training Center in fire-fighting and damage control, the Sira will receive two weeks of underway training with the Chesapeake Bay Fleet Training Group.

January 20, the ship will move to Charleston, S. C. for four weeks of training under the Atlantic Fleet Mine Force. The Sira will then return to Norfolk and operate under the Commander, Atlantic Fleet Service Forces before accompanying a convoy to Europe in the spring.

NEWS FOR VETERANS

A new type of "total push" program in Veterans Administration hospitals is opening the doors of closed wards for many long-term mentally ill patients, VA announced.

Successfully tested at the VA general medical and surgical hospital in Albany, N.Y., the program represents one of the first comprehensive attempts to recondition selected long-term psychiatric patients from closed ward status in neuropsychiatric hospitals to open ward status in general medical and surgical hospitals.

The patients generally selected for the treatment are those who have both mental and physical disabilities and who have shown little chance in their mental condition after many years of treatment in neuropsychiatric (NP) hospitals.

The objective in transferring them to general medical and surgical (GM&S) hospitals is to provide more intensive treatment and rehabilitation for their physical disabilities, and, at the same time, to apply "total push" measures in reconditioning them for greater freedom and independence in the hospital and community.

VA explained this not only frees beds in NP hospitals for those on the waiting list who need extensive treatment, it also benefits the long-term patients with physical disabilities because of their transfer to a different type hospital where the major patient load is non-mental and where treatment primarily is oriented toward physical disabilities.

While the primary goal of the new "total push" program is to make long-term mental patients more suitable for GM&S hospitalization and thereby eliminate the need for lock-ward security, the Albany studies indicate some patients actually can be improved to the point of discharge to their families.

You must apply to VA for a change on VA Form 7-1996. Included must be a report or progress and conduct from your present school.

Spanish Pork And Veal Bake

A heaping platter of Spanish Pork and Veal Bake makes a taste-tempting centerpiece for a full table. Green pepper rings garnish in their own colorful fashion.

Predictions are that pork will be in plentiful supply for months to come. You will want to make the most of this budget-balancing news by including pork often in your menus.

Spanish Pork and Veal Bake offers a fine chance for you to demonstrate the versatility of this popular meat. Pork teams up with veal in a flavorful tomato sauce to serve over cooked noodles.

There's really satisfying eating in this main dish, for it provides both animal and plant protein, plus a generous supply of vitamins and minerals. Tossed salad and enriched butterhorn rolls are good selections to serve with Spanish Pork and Veal Bake.

SPANISH PORK AND VEAL BAKE

1 1/2 pound cubed pork
1 pound cubed veal
2 tablespoons diced green pepper
1/2 cup diced onion
1 cup water
1 ounce medium noodles

1/2 cup water
1 tablespoon enriched flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 cup whole kernel corn
1 cup condensed tomato soup

Trim fat from pork and melt in large skillet. Brown pork and veal in fat. Add green pepper, onion and 1/2 cup water. Cover skillet and simmer about 45 minutes, or until meat is tender. Cook noodles in boiling salted water until tender (about 5 minutes). Drain and rinse. While noodles are cooking, add 1/2 cup water gradually to flour, salt and pepper and mix until well blended. Stir into meat mixture. Add corn and soup. Heat to serving temperature. Arrange noodles on platter and spoon meat mixture over top.
Makes 4 servings.

Dali Exhibition At Virginia Museum

An exhibition of jewels and objects d'art designed by the world-famous artist on display at the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts. The jewels, acquired in 1953 by the Catherwood Foundation, a philanthropic organization of Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania, are being shown in this country and in Europe for the benefit of a traveling fellowship, to be awarded this year to a Virginia artist by the Catherwood Foundation.

The fellowship, carrying a grant of $2500, will be awarded in late spring of 1956 to a Virginia artist chosen by a jury of five Virginians selected in accordance with the rules of the Catherwood Foundation. By March 1, a prospectus of the Fellowship will be mailed to all qualified Virginia artists between the ages of 21 and 40. Any such artist who has not received the prospectus by March 1 may write or call the Virginia Museum for information.

MARRIAGE BOOM AHEAD

Only 1.5 million marriages occurred in 1955, as compared with 2.3 million in postwar 1946. But by 1960, there will be a new wave of marriages resulting from the boom in births in the 40's. About 2 million a year.

spoons sugar, dash salt and stirred until thick. Add a dash of ground cloves. 2 tablespoons butter. 1/2 cup chopped walnuts and pitted halved canned purple plums. Serve hot or cold.

7. For a Sweet Nibble: Roll pitted canned purple plums alternately in shredded coconut and confectioner's sugar. Pass them around to the family or guests.

8. They go with nearly everything: Canned purple plums are excellent combined with rice, cereals, puddings, in cake mix, in salads, with ice cream, in gelatin desserts, and even as a sweet-tart garnish over duck or lamb or as a peppy side dish to accompany any meal.

All of these suggestions - sound so good - good - why don't you try them. Bye - Now.

AMA President Lists Safety Steps

The president of the American Medical Assn. today offered a four-point program to reduce traffic deaths and injuries. Dr. Elmer Hess of Erie, Pa., advocated in a speech before the Los Angeles Advertising Club:

1. Stricter driving license requirements.
2. Laws barring teen-agers from driving at night.
3. Stricter enforcement of traffic laws, particularly those applying to slow drivers.
4. Increased use of safety devices in automobiles.

ONE OUT OF THREE WOMEN WORK

There are more working women today than ever before—21 million with paying jobs. Before the war only 27% worked, in 1955 36% did. At present 30% of married women are working, twice as many as in 1940. The number is rising. Women's jobs are plentiful and young couples need the money to lift themselves in living standards. On the national average, the pay for women's jobs has risen less than men's.

New Plymouth Fury

The Fury, a new gold and white two-door hardtop, is the newest model in Plymouth's 1956 line of cars. A band of anodized aluminum inlay in gold, tapering to a point near the headlights, gives, held emphasis to Plymouth's aerodynamic styling. The Fury has a high output V-8 engine. The drive train and suspension system are engineered for high performance.

Plymouth Announces New Model For 1956, 240 horsepower "Fury"

Plymouth today announced a new model—the 240 horsepower "Fury"—which combines the finest features of a high performance sports car and retains all the conveniences of a deluxe American production car design.

A gold and white, two-door "hardtop" model the "Fury" increases the number of 1956 Plymouth models to 16, not including special taxi cab cars or export models.

Plymouth Pres. John F. Massfield said that the new model was the culmination of the intensive efforts on the part of engineers and designers to produce a production car which would offer the ultimate in performance without eliminating such things as six passenger capacity and attractive appointments.

The Fury will be displayed publicly for the first time at the Chicago Automobile Show which opens Saturday, January 7, at the International Amphitheater.

Shad To Be In Short Supply in '56

Place your order early for the shad you intend to bake this spring. There won't be enough for every family in Virginia! So predicts William H. Massmann, fish biologist at the Virginia Fisheries Laboratory at Gloucester Point.

Massmann says he is not being an alarmist. "Rarely are enough shad caught to supply every family in the state with even on fish during the season," he says. "That would take about a million fish. Massmann expects this year's catch to be somewhat below that of last season. He estimated from records supplied by fishermen that 184,000 shad were taken from the York River system during 1955.

"This was about 10,000 more fish than were caught in the same area in 1954, he declared. He combined information from fishermen with what he could gain from examining samples the commercial catch. Analysis revealed that nearly half the fish taken in nets last season were born in 1950. No great number of shad hatched in any one year since 1950 and lived to enter rivers to replace the ageing 1950 crop, Massmann believes. He predicts few young fish will be taken in 1956, and most of the shad will be over five years old.

This group of older fish is but the remnant of those that have supported the fishery during the last two or three seasons. Therefore the total number of fish entering this spring will be below the 1955 figure.

Has Massmann interpreted his findings correctly. Will the 1956 catch of shad actually be smaller than that of last season? Will the fish caught this spring average larger than those taken in 1955? Massmann is just as anxious as are the fishermen to learn if his methods are dependable. The fishermen hold the key to the success of the system. Careful records of their catch are absolutely necessary if the shad harvest is to be accurately forecast.

Hunting, Fishing In State Good In '55

Operations at the various hatcheries have been highly satisfactory this year, according to G. W. Buller, chief of the Fish Division of the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries. Output from the four hatcheries and one rearing station for trout is greater than ever before in the history of the State.

Distribution of the warm-water species has been completed, in accordance with the customary schedule of stocking these fish in the Fall. Trout restocking begins with the first of the year and will proceed as weather permits. Objective is to put all trout in the stream well in advance of the opening day of the angling season, noon on May 1.

There was an excellent output of largemouth bass, bluegill bream and crappie from the big hatchery at Stevensville. A large percentage of the bass were 10 inches and up, with many of last year's breeders running much larger. These are not held over but are distributed along with the rest.

Fish from the Stevensville Hatchery went into 68 public ponds and streams open to public fishing mainly in the Piedmont and Tidewater areas of the State. New ponds created by the Commission were very heavily stocked. Its customary to stock new bodies of water first with largemouth bass and bream, following with crappie in the next year's potage.

Small mouth bass, rock bass and long-ear sunfish went into 60 of the larger rivers, mainly in the western part of the state. There was excellent production both from the Front Royal Hatchery and the new Buller Hatchery in Smyth County. Because of its proximity to the Marion trout hatchery, substantial savings in cost of operation are effected at the new small-mouth bass hatchery by ability to shift equipment from one to the other and through savings in supervisory expense.

There has been exceptionally good luck with trout this year and a fine lot of brook and rainbow trout will go out from the Marion Hatchery, the rearing station at Montebello, and from the Buller hatchery, where there is a highly satisfactory trout rearing unit.

A great many of the trout streams are still low from the successive years of drought but it is hoped that conditions will improve. Just as rapidly as weather conditions permit, trout will be placed in a schedule 192 streams and two lakes.

All trout to be stocked are two years old, or older, running from 10 to 20 inches in length, with some of the former brood fish running even larger. All are healthy and vigorous fish which have been conditioned for life in the wild to the extent that conditions at the hatcheries permitted. Most of these fish have been fighting currents all their lives.

All of the public ponds constructed by the Commission thus far to improve angling opportunities in sections of the State where chances to go fishing were not as available as elsewhere have already been opened to the public with the exception of the Pivanna Ruritan Club pond, which has been completed and will be thrown open this year.

Returns for the checking stations, still incomplete, indicated that at least 1,000 more adult buck deer were killed this season than last in the mountainous areas of the State. Last year there were 10 counties in which the taking of antlerless deer was permitted; this year there was only one county.

Last year's total kill for the region west of the Blue Ridge was 7,373 animals. Of these, 2,009 were antlerless, leaving a total of 5,363 antlered buck taken by the hunters. With one or two counties still not heard from, the kill this year was a total of 6,434 animals, of which only 325 were antlerless.

The kill of adult buck thus far reported this year was 6,109, or 745 more than last year. It is confidently expected that final reports will show a kill of at least 1,000 more big bucks this year than last.

Indicative of the rapid growth in the herds west of the mountains and intensified interest in deer hunting in that region, their total kill in the 1955-56 season was only 5,141 animals; in 1952-53, 5,534; and in 1951-52, 3,425. Back in the 1947-48 season, the kill was only 1,331.

A good many questions have arisen in connection with the apparent scarcity of bears this year. With the open season still continuing, no definite figures are available as to the actual kill, but it is known in the Big Levels Refuge in Augusta the kill of bears dropped off sharply during the deer season.

There is a deplorable shortage of mast in most of the mountainous regions this year and, unlike deer, bears will roam far in quest of food. It may be that bears are not less numerous but that they have distributed themselves more widely and are harder for the hunters to find.

As for the Big Levels Refuge is concerned, it is easily possible that bears have moved out because of the intensive hunting that has been in progress there in the past several years.

While shortage of mast this year is to be regretted, Chester Phelps, chief of the Game Division, points out that throughout the national forests conditions are rapidly improving for such forest game as bears and turkeys. Through fire protection and forestry practices, much of the mountainous land is being brought back to stands of mature timber, where hitherto there were cut over or burned over areas with few mature trees.

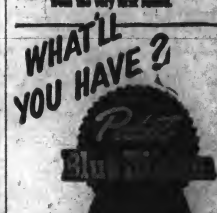

While waterfowl hunting has had its ups and downs, there are few who have occupied blinds in recent weeks who have not noted that the birds are apparently much more numerous than last year. In some areas the migrations were slow coming in.

During the middle of December, with freezing weather blanketing most of the eastern regions of the country, ducks poured into Virginia's marshes with fine flights of diving ducks joining the liberal numbers of marsh ducks which had already come in.

Kibitz Without Being Caught

If you were looking over this fellow's shoulder, anxiously trying to decide whether he was doing a good job, how could you put your mind at ease? He's installing shake shingle insulating siding over insulating board sheathing. If he's using at least 10 nails per panel, doing the nailing along course lines and clinching the nails that fall between studs, you can be reasonably sure he's doing a good job.

Few people enjoy playing cards to kibitz without the workman know or working with someone looking in it. Let's take an example. Suppose person doing the looking is likely to be critical of the performance being given. The brick, stone or shake shingle pattern.

But sometimes a little intelligent or perhaps you're building a new kibitzing pays off, especially when home and have specified siding for your money is paying a workman's the outside walls. How can you tell salary. The secret is in learning how whether the application job is done right? Here are a few things to watch:

1.—Methods of Handling Materials
A good workman respects the materials he uses. If the siding bundles are stored in stacks not more than five bundles high, and then covered neatly with building felt, the workman respects materials and knows how to store them.

2.—Sizing up the Job—The way he starts the job is another tip-off to his care and efficiency. Application of panels should start at the lowest corner of the building. A chalk line should be run all the way around the building and it should be absolutely level. You don't have to be a detective to see whether this is true.

3.—Nailing—Each panel of siding should have a minimum of 10 nails. 1 1/2 inches long on modernization work, 1 1/4 inches long on new construction. Nailing should be done in the course lines and spread evenly over the panel.

4.—Finishing Touches—Insulating siding is primarily a weatherproofing and insulating material. It does its job better if moisture and cold air can't get through windows and doors. All these points should be carefully checked and corrections should be finished with metal or with corners made from the same material as the siding.

All these points can be easily checked without special training in building procedure or in detective work. Do this checking and you'll gain the pace of mind that goes with knowing you're getting your money's worth.

BIG BUILDING BOOM IN THE 60's

A building boom in the 60's is assured and it's likely to be almost twice as big as the present one. Marriages are the major factor in the demand for new houses. Marriages are now at the rate of 1.5 million, yet they justify 1.3 million houses. In the early 60's, 1.8 million houses a year will be needed to accommodate the 2.1 million new marriages.

If a floor board splinter has partly broken off, the best way to deal with it is to cut it all away and build up the space with Plastic Wood. When the Plastic Wood has hardened, sand it smooth and touch up with shellac or paint to match the floor. A splinter that is still all the way in can usually be glued down, using a wedge or weight, or both, to hold it in place until the glue has dried.

When a fuse blows out it is easy to tell whether you have a short circuit or an overload. Take out the fuse and screw a 25-watt bulb into the socket. If the bulb gives a normal light you have a short. One by one, disconnect lamps, overhead lights, and appliances on the circuit. When the fuse socket bulb goes out you have located the short. If the fuse socket bulb gives a dim light when you screw it in, or no light, you have an overload. Take one or more of the lamps or appliances off the circuit. (ANS)

FASTEST GROWING STATES

Arizona, Delaware, Florida, Nevada and New Mexico are at the top of the list in rate of population growth. The Pacific Coast has slowed down a bit in the past four years and didn't grow quite as fast as it did from 1940 to 1950. Florida, with a gain of 1940 to 1950, California, which grew 18% in the past four years. In actual numbers of people, however, California is the leader and its population will probably top even New York state in 1956.

Hampton Roads Ship Movements Show Increase

The Norfolk Naval Base Port Control Office saw an increase in the number of ship movements coordinated in the Hampton Roads and Chesapeake Bay area during 1955, handling nearly 4,800 ship arrivals and departures.

This represents an average of 30 vessels more per month than in 1954. A staff of 300 officers and men, and 25 civilians, man the Port Control Office and its fleet of harbor craft.

The Naval Base organization estimated that various military and civilian vessels handled represented nearly 54 million tons of shipping. The office offered to each of the ships a variety of services in addition to assigning berthing and providing docking and undocking assistance. Transportation, crane, barge, and ambulance services were available to all of the ships through the Port Control Office. They also coordinated immigration, quarantine and agricultural inspections, as well as supplying heating, fuel, water and other supplies and services.

Approximately 160,000 measurement tons of stores, provisions, and cargo are handled at the piers monthly. Fueling requirements approach 1 1/2 million barrels of black oil for the same period.

The total number of vessels used by the Port Control Office included 27 self-propelled tugs in providing service to the fleet and barges and 90 non-self-propelled lighters.

The Port Control Office has jurisdiction over the various military movements in the local waterways and the berthing of ships at the Naval Base, Conway Escort Piers, Craney Island, and at Navy berths in Newport News, Va.

Lionleum Fits Every Room

Armstrong Lionleum will fit into any color or scheme or any style of room declares a spokesman for the J. C. Law & Son establishment at 3515 Colley Ave., Norfolk.

The first step in re-doing a room should be gathering samples of materials to be used in the room. One of the easiest ways to develop a color scheme, the spokesman says, is to build it around a floor of Armstrong Lionleum. This is practical, he pointed out, because the floor is one of the largest color areas.

Texture also can be of tremendous help in decorating the room in distinctive style. Armstrong's Lionleum has an unusually large selection of texture floor effects, some of which will certainly fit into the homeowner's plan, the spokesman says. Once basic colors

Efficiency To Key Food Costs In '56 A&P Head Says

There should be plentiful supplies of food for America's Record level appetites in 1956, Ralph W. Burger, president of The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, said today.

Mr. Burger said that food prices in 1955 were 1.5% lower than in 1954 and 5.8% below the post-World War II peak reached in 1952. The over-all cost of living in 1955, he noted, was down only four-tenths of one per cent.

Present forecasts show that food production during the New Year will come close to the record 1955 level and that prices to consumers will remain about the same. With average weather there should be adequate food supplies to meet consumer demand, Mr. Burger said.

The A&P President warned, however, that "if we are going to continue to hold the price line and at the same time assure farmers of an adequate return, we must alert to resist inflationary trends developing with the industry."

"Food is one of the largest expenses of the average family. Over-expansion and the unhealthy competitive practice of the 'Boom Psychology' can raise the cost of eating in every American home."

In 1955, he said, the nation's families ate better than ever before and made heavier purchases of what were once "Luxury Foods." Per capita meat consumption, one example he cited, exceeded 160 pounds — this was five per cent more than in 1954 and the highest for any year on record since 1908.

"Some price reductions may have gone beyond the point where farmers can get a fair return for their investment and labor. Pork is a dramatic example of a food that got so low in price that the producers actually suffered a loss."

Although retail prices were lower in 1955, said Mr. Burger, people spent more money for food. This was because of the greater demand for higher priced items and for foods with "built-in" services, such as cake mixes, frozen foods and frozen meals, ready-to-cook and pre-cooked items, he explained.

Increases in wages, taxes, rent, transportation and other fixed costs cannot be controlled by the industry, whereas certain other costs the industry imposes upon itself, he said.

"Food merchants are merely purchasing agents for America's Consumers. Loose control over costs, along with over-expansion and unsound competitive practices amount to speculation with the consumer's food dollars, which account for one-fourth of the average family's income.

It takes time for a baseball team and that's the number of passengers who can be accommodated in the new Chevrolet station wagon for 1956. Just to illustrate the point, the Queens, a girls' baseball team from Flint, Mich., climbed into the new car and found plenty of room left behind the third seat for equipment. This is one of six Chevrolet station wagons.

"The industry operates on a volume of billions of dollars a year but it must not forget that nearly one-fifth of all the families it serves have incomes of less than $2,000 a year, and that more than three-fifths earn less than $5,000 a year."

One danger in over-expansion cited by Mr. Burger was the trend toward larger and larger super markets. "In general," he said, "the larger a store is, the harder it becomes to keep its operating costs low."

"Consumer buying habits have changed and there is no question that stores must be operated for the convenience of their customers. But neither long store hours nor the new 'built-in services' should be allowed to raise the cost of food.

"Long store hours with night and Sunday business, 'give-away' and premiums were scrapped by the food industry years ago, because they raised food prices," he continued. "Now, however, we are in danger of reviving old costly patterns."

One service the consumer is entitled to can be improved without cost, according to the A&P President. "The cost of courteous service is part of the price charged the customer," he said.

C. H. Lamb, Commissioner of the Division of Motor Vehicles, today made his annual appeal to Virginia motor vehicle licensees that if they have changed their address since registering their vehicles in 1955, that they immediately furnish the Division the following information:

New address, title number, make and identification number and name as shown on the old registration card.

Change of address blanks may be secured from the Division's 110 Lico Avenue, 8 Branch offices and at DMV headquarters, 2230 West Broad Street, Richmond, Va.

"On January 4 the Division is processing more than 1,300,000 duplicate cards for the 1956 registration period," said Mr. Lamb, pointed out that "if the licensee's address is same as when he registered his vehicle in 1955, it is a matter of seconds to prepare his card. On the other hand, failure to notify the Division of a change in his simple case before the registration period begins, March 15, involves a delay of from a few hours to make the necessary card. This bound to work a hardship on the licensee and cause him considerable inconvenience."

Girl Scout News

The first meeting in the new year of the District Committee of Girl Scouts of Princess Anne County was held at the home of Mrs. Queen Dill, Virginia Beach, on Friday, January 13, 1956.

Mrs. Lillian Clarke, District Chairman, called the meeting to order and read an appropriate message entitled "Peace". Mrs. Clarke made a most interesting and informative statement, that namely, Girl Scouts in the Virginia Tidewater area are seventh in line for Scouts in the United States. This has been a remarkable growth within the last few years due to the growing popularity of the organization. Mrs. Dill, Secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting held at the home of Mrs. R. M. Simmons, Chesapeake, on December 2nd.

Reports were given by the Neighborhood Chairmen stressing the many and varied activities of the troops during the Christmas holidays. Scouts assisted in selling Christmas cards during December in the Post Office lobby; trimmed trees at the Welfare Center for about-its making ornaments for the trees; contributed dues to the Joy Fund, and made attractive gifts for parents; besides their own Christmas parties. Mrs. Lewis Smith, Virginia Beach, Neighborhood Chairman, reported her troops would hold a rally during Girl Scout Week in March at the Virginia Beach High School and will take as their theme "Girl Scouts Also Serve". Mrs. F. S. McCoy, reporting for Mrs. B. M. Simmons, Ocean View, said the troops were working on folk dancing and book binding badges and would soon have their cookie sale. Brownie Troops 244 and 245 expect to have investiture ceremonies and birthday parties. Mrs. Christine Whitaker and Mrs. Joe Law, are the Leader and Assistant Leader of these Troops. Their meetings are held in the Parish House of the Eastern Shore Chapel, London Bridge.

A letter was read from the Needwork Guild of Norfolk appealing for help to hem sheets, napkins, etc., and suggest that Girl Scouts could help earn their sewing badge by assisting in this cause.

Mrs. Lawrence Rees, Girl Scout Director for Princess Anne County, announced a fashion show would be held at the Princess Anne High School, February 10th, 8 PM showing scout uniforms from its early stages to the present day, as well as modern spring fashions for the teen-agers. This fashion show is being sponsored by two District troops in the Chesapeake and Princess Anne districts and directed by Amos and Brownlee, Inc. in Norfolk. Mrs. Rees stressed the point that all Scouts attending this show would earn their Good Grooming badge.

Mrs. Clark announced that the annual District meeting and banquet would be held again this year at the Pine Tree Inn, Virginia Beach, February 22nd. All adult scouts and friends are invited to attend this meeting and it is at this time the new officers are presented for 1956. She also named Mrs. Jean Snyder, Kempesville, Day Camp Director for Camp Linhorn for the ensuing year, and Mrs. Glenn Dill, Assistant Director.

The nominating committee, (Mrs. J. C. Addington, Chairman, Mrs. Lewis Smith and Mrs.

J. Candem Brady) presented the slate of officers for 1956 which was accepted as a whole.

The following officers were elected:

District Chairman Mrs. Henry A. Hedley, Bayside, First Vice Chairman Mrs. H. W. Newcombe, Bayside, Second Vice Chairman Mrs. John A. Tucker, Va. Beach, Secy-Treasurer Mrs. Alton Hogard, Va. Beach.

These officers will be installed at the annual meeting at Pine Tree Inn on February 22nd.

Mrs. Addington, calendar Chairman, reported one thousand (1,000) Girl Scout 1956 calendars were distributed and sold by the Princess Anne County Scouts.

Mrs. J. Bagley Walker, of Lake Smith, who has served as District Chairman on Camp Makoona Committee for several years, now heads all camp activities in the Tidewater Area, including Camp Makoona and the various local Day camps.

After the adjournment of the meeting, the hostess, Mrs. Glenn, served lunch to the Committee.

Bay Colony Club Shown Movie On Culture Of Roses

A movie on the "Culture of Roses" was shown by Mr. H. Briggs, at the monthly meeting of Bay Colony Garden Club held on Wednesday, January fourth, at Princess Anne Country Club.

It was announced that Mrs. L. O. Clark won first award in the holiday doorway contest for the entire residential section of Virginia Beach, with Mrs. Peter Holland, 3rd, and Mrs. Thos. F. James in third place. Honorable mention was given Mrs. Julian Burke, Mrs. W. H. Webster, Jr., Mrs. John S. Matthews and Mrs. L. F. Patrick.

Hostesses were Mrs. R. Q. Barr, Jr., Mrs. W. L. Gilliam, Jr., Mrs. A. R. Malhes and Mrs. L. F. Patrick.

Surf Queens Win, Lose In Recent Games

The Virginia Beach Surf Queens dropped a real thriller to the O'Donnells Restaurant team 45-41 in a game that ended 41-41 during the regulation portion of play.

In the extra overtime period the Va. Beach girls took a lead at the halfway mark when Barbara Whitehead banged in a fine hook shot. Betty Booth of O'Donnells tied it up a few seconds later with a one hander from the circle. When a charging foul was called on locals, Baum dropped in both shots to put the Restaurant girls in the lead and win the game. Whitehead for the Surf Queens got one point from the gratin line and the game ended before another shot could be made.

Charlotte Marshall hit from all angles to register 20 points for the Surf Queens before leaving the game in the fourth quarter with an ankle injury. Her shooting had enabled the Virginia Beach girls to overcome a 15 point half time deficit. The score was tied at the end of the third quarter 33-33.

City By The Sea

To the City by the Sea,
Travers come from hill and lee,
Little children hand in hand,
Splashing through the silvery mud,
Till the slushing waves creep up,
To the bucket and the cup,
Weary workers languish nigh,
Gazing in the azure sky,
Meeting conscience face to face,
By the clearing outer space,
Taking on the healthy spray,
As they loiter day by day,
Gaining friendships two and three,
In the City by the Sea,
In the City by the Sea,
Where the sailors shout with glee,
And the madmen flashing eyes,
Keeps their hopes within the skies,
With their vigor and their youth,
Daring all for love and truth,
Snows and winds may sometimes come,
But it lures them safely home,
Then the mariner bides awhile,
Round the fire in country style,
Till again the sunshine glow,
Drags him forth his steps to go,
Down the beach enchanting gladness,
Banished all his woes and sadness,
What can more exciting be,
Than the City by the Sea?

In the Church by the side of the Sea,
They worship God who set them free,
O'er the world they come and go,
Telling of the love they know,
Mingling nations near and far,
With no hate, no life to mar,
For the pure and open space,
Woke the fellowship shown by grace,
By the side of the Sea the waves wash clean,
Not only nature but hearts that were mean,
The sailing ships, the planes overhead,
Awakens hopes they thought were dead,
No other power could prove sublime,
But the power of One who counts no lives,
Of the Man who walked in Galilee,
An old, old City by the side of the Sea.

FORT STORY TELLINGS

The Army Transportation Corps has taken the wraps off a giant experimental landing craft retriever with a lifting capacity of 80 tons.

The retriever, known officially as Landing Craft Retriever 1-X, was displayed to newsmen and the public for the first time Wednesday, Jan. 11, when it was used to lift a 28-ton Navy landing craft off the beach at Ft. Story and set it in the water.

Rough water forced the boat, a landing craft, Mechanized 6, to beach the previous night, when she was assisting in efforts to re-transferred to San Diego. She is survived by her husband and 3 daughters who make their home at 344 Jennings Street, San Diego 6, California.

While stationed here Jennie was a member of the Woman's Club of Chesapeake Beach and she sang in the choir of Old Donation Episcopal Church.

float two Navy ships aground at Ft. Story.

The retriever, developed by the Transportation Research and Development Command at Ft. Belvoir, has been undergoing tests at Ft. Story since April, 1955. Field test engineer is Maj. Eddie M. Young.

The vehicle weighs 101 tons. It is 75 feet long, 38 feet wide and 23 feet high. A diesel-electric power plant propels the retriever at a speed of six miles an hour. It is operated by a crew of six. Highly maneuverable for its size, the retriever is capable of simultaneous front and rear wheel steering. Each of its four wheels is 10 feet in diameter.

The experimental piece of equipment was designed to retrieve disabled landing craft from the water or beach and carry them to repair facilities or set them afloat again. The vehicle can operate in six to eight feet of water.

The retriever, only one of its kind, is constructed so that it can be dismantled into its basic major assemblies for shipment. It was manufactured by R. G. Le Tourneau, Inc. of Longview, Tex.

Insulation Cuts Air Conditioning Cost Two Ways

One 1000-square foot home can be adequately air conditioned with one-and-one-half-ton cooling unit.

A similar 1000-square foot home can be adequately air conditioned with a three-ton cooling unit.

The one-and-one-half-ton unit costs approximately $900 to install, operates for $75 to $100 a year. The three-ton unit costs approximately $1400 to install, operates for $130 to $160 a year.

Why the difference? Climate isn't responsible because the two homes are in the same block. The design of the two homes is similar.

The big difference comes because one home is insulated properly and the other isn't. Other factors—weatherstripping, storm windows or double glazing, location of windows and doors in respect to the sun, living habits, landscaping, ventilation and type of roof—all effect the size of the air conditioning unit and the cost of running it. But the biggest single factor is insulation according to studies made by the Insulation Board Institute.

The Institute designed a 1000-square foot home, insulated only with such insulation board products as insulating sheathing, insulating siding, decorated insulation board, and insulating lath, to determine how much economy could be achieved through proper insulation.

The main insulation areas, as with any home, are the walls, roof, attic and ceiling. There's a choice of roof design between a pitched or flat roof. The pitched roof has one-inch insulation board on top of the joists, one-half inch decorated insulation board or one-half inch insulation board and lath as interior ceiling finish. The home with the flat roof has basically the same materials except that three-inch laminated insulation board is used as the roof deck.

The Institute found that one of the best combinations for exterior wall construction was to use insulating siding, which has a one-half-inch base of insulation board sheathing. The interior wall was finished with a third insulating material, decorated insulation board.

Besides the averages low cost air conditioning operation and a low cost unit, further savings are realized in this wall construction because neither the insulating siding for the exterior wall nor the decoration board on the inside wall requires any painting or staining.

Build To Help Working Mothers

The American Institute of Life Insurance recently reported that almost 20 million women are employed outside the home in the United States.

Of this total more than 11 million are married and five million are mothers.

Why do mothers work or go back to work as they have been doing in a steady parade since the end of World War II? The Department of Labor says inflation, the desire for money to spend on luxuries and home improvements, the monotony of house work, the need for money factors that cause mothers to seek outside employment.

Whatever their motive for working, these mothers have become an important force in the housing market. Builders ask themselves, "What kind of house appeals to the working mother?" When they get the right answer they find that the house not only appeals to working mothers but to all mothers (who say they don't work).

The Printing Industry ranks Eight in value added by manufacturing among the nation's top twenty manufacturing industries with a total of almost five billion dollars.

Marine History

When the United States entered World War I April 6, 1917, the Marine Corps had a personnel strength of about 13,500. By Armistice Day it had expanded to more than five times that size, and some 31,000 Marines had seen service with the American Expeditionary Forces, practically all of them in the 4th and 5th Marine Brigades or the 1st Marine Aviation Force.

The aviation force fought as the Day Wing of the Northern Bombing Group and the 4th Marine Brigade saw action with the 2nd "Indian-head" Division. The 5th Brigade, which reached France later in the war, was used chiefly for guard duty with the Service of Supply.

Consisting of two regiments and a machine-gun 5th MCRD Re a machine-gun battalion, the 4th Marine Brigade first moved into the front-lines near Verdun, where it obtained combat seasoning in a relatively quiet sector from March to May, 1918. It then moved to the Chateau-Thierry sector, where its stubborn defense from May 31 to June 5 helped stop a German breakthrough that threatened to roll all the way to Paris.

Then, on June 6, 1918, the 2nd

Division took the initiative, and its Leatherneck brigade captured Hill 142, Bourches and a small part of Belleau Wood, an odd-shaped square mile of trees, boulders and heavy underbrush which was the closest point of the German advance toward Paris. There, during some of the most desperate combat imaginable, the Marines fought, on despite terrific casualties to drive the Germans from one machine gun nest after another. Finally, on June 24, one of the brigade officers sent back the message:

"Woods now U. S. Marine Corps' entirely." The Marines were so impressed with the achievement that they re-named the wood the "Bois de la Brigade de Marine."

After that the 4th Brigade went on to fight with distinction in the battles of the Aisne-Marne, St. Mihiel, Blanc Mont and the Meuse-Argonne. It returned to the United States in 1919, following occupation service in Germany.

IF HE DID THE LAUNDRY JUST ONCE...

you'd soon get

a complete ELECTRIC LAUNDRY

Washing time is free time when a modern, automatic Electric Washer takes over the job. Just pop in the clothes, set the dial, and go on about your other business of the day.

Drying time is any time with an Electric Clothes Dryer. Let it rain wildcats and wolves or blow a gale outdoors. The weather's perfect in your Electric Dryer. Even on sunny days, it saves you clothesline drudgery. And it cuts ironing time in half—because things come out so fluff and smooth, you can fold many away without ironing!

Ironing time is jig time, too, with a rotary Electric Ironer. It does shirts, blouses, everything. And you sit down in comfort while you skim through any amount of flatwork.

NOTE: Hubby will probably use words like "production line efficiency" and "good investment." But you know it's just common sense. So, before next washday, ask your Electric Appliance dealer how easy it is to own—and how little it costs to use—a complete Electric Laundry.

GIVING AND LIVING

Other is one of the keys to life. We are not one way streets. There must be that which leads to us in the way of benefits received, but also that which leads us in the way of response. It is important to receive, but it is just as important to give. All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. All receiving and no giving produces quite as calamitous a result.

Much attention is paid to our acquisitive instincts. So much so that in many of us they are overdeveloped. "Getting and spending we lay waste our powers." Life consists in getting what there is to be gotten. We identify life with material things. A standard of living is the sum of things we must get.

IMBALANCE AND BALANCE

What we tend to overlook is that much in life can be got only through giving. Here is a man who is ill. He doesn't know what is wrong with him; the doctors don't know, either. He is always complaining about mysterious illnesses. Yet he is repeatedly examined and these illnesses disclose no physical basis. He is always querulous and whining, always takes a negative view of every possibility, has no good word to say for anyone.

There is, as I say, no physical cause for his condition, but there is a spiritual cause for it. A wise doctor says: "You need to get your mind off yourself. You need to make an investment of yourself in something else. You need a hobby. You need a new interest, something to put your mind on." It comes to this: that his only hope of health lies in giving.

KEY TO HEAVEN

The Christian experience simply carries this natural experience to its proper climax. Perfect joy lies in the complete giving of oneself to God. We find that truth expressed in the words of the Psalmist: "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and all that is within me bless His holy name." Many say: "Bless the Lord, O my soul," and stop there. This is a sentimental religion, not one that drives to the depths. But the Psalmist goes much deeper: "Let all that is within me, bless His holy name." Some balk at that. They say, rather, "Let some that is within me bless His holy name." But all it must be if the fruits are to be received.

We protest, clutching tightly our little hoard, "It's far too much! Why give all to God?" We do it not for God's sake but for our own sake. We were made for Him. We do not really live until we live for Him and in Him.

TO GUIDE...AND TO MEASURE...

A ruler... the humblest of instruments! Yet it meets two tremendously important needs. It guides... giving man a straight, sure rule by which to draw his lines and sketch his plans. And it measures... showing man where to begin, and where to end, proving the dimensions of his work.

That which the simple ruler does in the physical realm of life is the work of the Church in the spiritual realm. For every man's life is like a blank sheet of paper, until, by his own living, he places upon it the lines which give it meaning and character.

The Church is our guide... giving us the tried and sure truths by which we can live... pointing us to the straight and unwavering paths which lead to God.

And the Church is our measure... showing us the standards by which every man's life must be judged... revealing the Christ whose teaching and example are the beginning and ending of all spiritual achievement, the perfect dimensions of life.

Are you letting the Church meet these tremendous needs in your life?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values, democracy, non-violence, service. There are four sound reasons why every person should support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his family's sake. (3) For the sake of the community and nation. (4) Which needs his moral and mental support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Notes from YOUR COUNTY AGENT

By E. R. "DICK" COCKRELL, JR.
PRINCESS ANNE COUNTY AGRICULTURAL AGENT

STRONG PRICES FOR LAND

It seems the offerings of farm land for sale are about in keeping with the rate of turnover needed to permit farmers to make necessary adjustments in the size of other operations. As mechanization continues, an ever-increasing size of business will be needed to provide full employment for a farm family. Furthermore, if technology continues to make it possible to increase production faster than needs, the number of families needed on farms will continue to drop.

"Those who realize the trend have little prospect for gains." The trend toward decentralization of industry is also having an effect on farm land prices. Many plant sites have been bought in rural Virginia during the past year. Numerous others are in the offing. The effects of such developments are indicated in land values in varying degrees.

Generally the national farm real estate situation shows signs of continued optimism among farmers. More than two-thirds of the farms sold last year were bought by farmers - the highest proportion of farm-purchases since 1932. In addition the price per acre was bid up to the all-time high recorded in 1932, and 90% of the farms and tracts of land bought by active farmers were for operation by them.

Farmers are apparently willing to obligate themselves on mortgages to buy land. Lenders are also increasing the pumber and size of mortgage loans. New debt recordings secured by farm real estate increased 20% during the first half of 1955. The number of loans was up 9% while the average size increased 19%. However, about 7 out of 10 farmers still have no such debts. Of the farms carrying mortgages, more than 86% have a debt of below 60% of their market value. Over half of the mortgaged farmers have debts under 30% of their value.

In Virginia farm land values rose 4% between March and July 1955, while in the nation the rise averaged 3%.

GRAPE SPRAYING TIMELY

After the first of the year is a good time to work in the vineyard. Pruning of dead or diseased canes and knotty insect-infested wood will do much to improve the vigor of grape vines and reduce disease infection.

All pruned wood, dried-up berries, dead leaves and rubbish should be collected and burned to reduce troubles next season. Sanitation will help, and a dormant spray of lime-sulfur will kill fungus spores that may affect the crop.

In many local insects are present, a spray of 3% oil emulsion or miscible oil will be more effective than the lime-sulfur. Use one or the other, but not both. Oil and lime sulfur are not compatible spray mixtures. Using both will injure the vines. Spraying should be done when the temperature is about 40° F. or higher.

SWINE SALE PLANNED

Three purebred hog sales have been planned for this winter. The first will be at Suffolk February 1, with 27 bred sows and 22 boars consigned.

At Winchester, February 3, 26 bred sows and 15 boars will be sold. The third sale is planned for Wapahamock, February 7, with 25 bred sows and 19 boars.

Breeds to be sold at all three sales are Berkshire, Duroc, Hampshire, Poland China, Spotted Poland China, and Yorkshire. Gilts of all breeds are bred to farrow in February and March.

The sales are sponsored by the Virginia Purebred Swine Breeders' association.

SHEEP BREEDERS'

Members of Virginia's two purebred sheep breeders' associations - the South-west and Valley-North-east groups - have scheduled annual luncheon meetings this month.

Plans for 1956 sales and election of officers are on the agenda for both meetings. In addition, awards will be made to winners of the 1955 "Returns per Ewe" contest.

The Southwest Association will meet in Bland January 18, with J. C. Kidd of Bland presiding.

The Valley-North-east Association will meet January 20 at Front Royal, with Owen Thomas of Round Hill presiding.

The committee in charge of the 1956 Eastern Stud Ram Sale will meet in Staunton January 21, with Albert Wilson of Rural Retreat acting as chairman. The sale is planned for June 13 and 14 at Staunton.

NUTRITIONAL VALUES STUDIED RESEARCHERS AT YPI

What effects do light, soil pH, the crop year, and minor elements have on the nutritional value of a crop?

That's the question asked, and answered, by researchers at YPI Agricultural Experiment Station, where a study of turnip greens has been completed.

James F. Shurt of the depart-

WET DOGS... Flood waters of Russian River invade cow barn near Healdsburg as week of torrential rains cost 20 deaths and 50,000 ruined homes in northern California.

ment of biocchemistry, says yields varied considerably from year to year, but averaged highest in the high-pH plots, and in the plots to which minor elements were applied to the soil.

Ascorbic acid and dry matter content of the greens also varied unaltered plot with tobacco cloth from year to year.

Carotene (vitamin A) content dropped with high intensity. Thiamine content increased slightly when minor elements were applied to the soil, and considerably with a combination of high light intensity and low soil pH.

Riboflavin content increased to a small degree with high light intensity, and more by a combination of high light intensity and minor elements applied to the soil.

Thiamine and riboflavin belong to the nutritionally important vitamin B complex family.

Two light intensity levels were produced by shading one-half of each lined and one-half of each content of the greens also varied unaltered plot with tobacco cloth.

A light meter showed that the tobacco cloth reduced the light intensity about 50% on a bright day. Shading was started 10 days before harvest. Within each light intensity level, three minor element treatments were made: (1) no minor elements, (2) minor elements applied as a foliar spray two weeks before harvest, and (3) minor elements applied to the soil after the plants had been thinned.

VEGETABLE VARIETIES

There's new comers this year on the list of vegetable varieties suggested for Virginia planting - and the arduous gardener browsing over his new seed catalogues might do well to consider them. Careful planning before ordering seed for the home garden can do much to increase its value.

Proved superior by test, varieties showing up for the first time on the recommended list for home gardeners this year include: Extra Early Egyptian beets, Dwarf Blue Curled Scotch kale, Palmetto cucumber, Lochief sweet corn, and Long Orange carrots.

Both home and commercial gardeners who are not satisfied with California Wonder pepper might try Yolo Wonder.

Varieties which have been recommended heretofore are listed and described in Circular 639, "Vegetable Gardening in Virginia." The publication also includes suggestions of liming and fertilizing, insect and disease control, times and rates of planting, etc. Ask your county agent, or write the VPI Agricultural Extension Service, Blacksburg, for a free copy.

Exterior Color Scheme Could Match Interior

Carry your inside-the-home color theme right outdoors for a smart ensemble effect, says Grace Holm, home decorating authority.

If your house is sided with one of the many exciting patterns of natural wood, then such accessories as louvers and patio railings may be painted any color to harmonize or blend with the wood exterior. Interior color schemes may be carried to these outdoor accents, suggests Miss Holm, home decoration editor for the Portland Oregonian's Housewife.

Miss Holm says that even the carport becomes a part-time patio if the overhang is painted a ray color and a few shrub tubs of natural cedar are placed at strategic points, giving the area a party atmosphere.

One of the reasons why natural wood is such a popular siding material is because it is so complementary to landscaping. The occasional authority says, "Weathered red cedar is particularly appropriate for its rich red-brown hue is in perfect accord with most building sites, and cedar has a natural weather resistance, making it ideal for all outdoor construction."

In our opinion, enjoying the beauty of life, and living and helping others brings genuine happiness.

GARDEN GUIDE

By BARTOW E.
BRIDGES, JR.

In last week's Garden Guide we discussed the preliminary considerations of landscaping a small lot. The advisability of obtaining privacy with plant screens or with walls and fences, the importance of planting, locating the service area, public yard and private garden were topics mentioned.

The service area sometimes is most conveniently broken up to several smaller spaces. For example, a place for garbage cans would usually have to be in the front to facilitate trash collection. The cans should be provided with some sort of screen in the interest of beautification and to discourage dogs. If a stack of fire wood is kept there its location would be influenced by location of the driveway for ease in bringing the logs to property. Nearness to the door of the house through which the wood will have to be taken is also a consideration. A children's play area should be in a part of the yard visible from the rooms of the house in which the mother spends more of her time. These points illustrate that it is often more practical to have several service areas than just one, however the more they can be combined the better will be the design, particularly on small lots.

After the utilization of land has been decided upon, the methods of beautifying the area with plants and garden structures need to be considered. With respect to plants, this means what type and where. As with deciding on the area, it is best to make sketches in helping to decide where plants should be placed. It is much more convenient to change your mind on paper than to transplant the shrub!

Trees are important additions to any lot that is not already endowed with them. From the practical aspect, it is good to have a tree on the south and/or west sides of the house and the outdoor living room to provide shade from the hot afternoon sun. And it is a deciduous tree is used, then it will cooperate by letting sunshine help warm the house in winter. If all the planting can be done in one operation, the best starting point would be the purchase and planting of trees so they can begin growing large enough to do what is wanted of them. Small trees such as dogwood, red bud and the flowering fruit trees are better suited to a small lot than a tree which will eventually take up a lot of space.

It is wise to consider the size to which a plant will grow and its rate of growth, particularly where land is limited. Both factors can be modified by pruning but because most home owners do not enjoy frequent pruning of their shrubs, slow growing types are more desirable. Some plants, especially the narrow leaf evergreens, will tolerate only light trimming. Purchasing a plant without consideration of the size to which it will grow except to say, "well, I'll keep it pruned to the height I want it!" does not always work out.

Narrow leaf evergreens are cheaper for nurserymen to produce than broadleaf evergreens, and therefore are often seen planted at project houses where the builder had to hold costs down to a minimum. But it will also be noticed in many of the projects that have been completed several years narrow leaf evergreen are growing up to the roofs, hiding windows and often obscuring much of the building. The rate of growth of these plants can be slowed by trimming but they have to keep growing until their maximum size is reached. Heavy pruning of narrow leaf evergreens remove most of the foliage which is concentrated near the branch tips. Thus the plant is made very unattractive. Heavy pruning of this group of plants is frequently fatal to the plant.

It should be mentioned that some narrow leaf evergreens are either dwarf or slow growing and thus more desirable.

Obviously care should be taken in the selection of plants for small lots from the point of view of rate of growth and maximum size of the plants. In our area, broad leaf evergreens and deciduous trees and shrubs are good general categories from which to choose. Many of these that normally grow large can successfully be kept small by pruning. By successfully we mean that the plant's health is not weakened and its beauty not impaired.

Texture of plants should be a consideration in their selection. Trees and shrubs with large, coarse leaves are best suited to large lots. We feel that a Magnolia grandiflora, the Southern Magnolia, should not be used in a small yard. It just does not fit in from the point of view of texture. This would be modified if the small yard were connected with several other yards with little in the way of barriers between them. That way the effect would be that of a large leafed tree in a large yard.

Many gardeners have such preferences for some plants that they disregard texture when the plants are picked out. Another example of where texture would enter into the selection of plants would be the selection of ground cover. On small lots the coarse leaves of English Ivy would not be as suitable as smaller leafed plants such as Elaeagnus or Vinca minor.

These are some of the considerations in working out a landscape design and in choosing plants for small properties. We hope that the ideas will prove helpful.

Board Of Supervisors Deal With Many Problems At January Meet

The Princess Anne County Board of Supervisors spent a busy day last Monday in its regular January meeting dealing with pressing problems created by the rapid growth of the county.

The board made these decisions and considerations:

1. Approved a resolution that the General Assembly be requested to levy a State sales tax.
2. Heard the School Board present its plan for financing schools—an increase of the maximum school levy from $3 up to $4, which could be brought about by legislative action.
3. Approved calling a State specialist to make a preliminary investigation of sanitation needs with regard to setting up sewage disposal in the county.
4. Considered the co-operative agreement entered into by the county on the Lynnhaven Waterways project.

The Supervisors voted on record as approving a sales tax on the grounds that there is a growing demand for higher teachers salaries, that the local government is hard-pressed for revenues, that 75 cents of each local tax dollar is spent for the school system, and that real estate and personal property is carrying "more than its rightful share" of the tax burden.

In its resolution, the board asked that the sales tax revenue pay the entire cost of teacher salaries under the State schedule, leaving the county to supplement these salaries as desired.

No action was taken on the school board's suggestion that the maximum $4 school levy be raised to $5.

A committee of four appointed by the Supervisors to make proposals for sanitation and sewage disposal, reported that no recommendation be made without competent engineering assistance.

Ricard B. Kellam, committee spokesman, said that after a lengthy survey the committee felt that any attempt on its part to advise the Supervisors would be unsatisfactory until engineering advice was obtainable.

He said the committee felt that a centralized sewerage system would not be feasible for the county and would be financially prohibitive.

The county will ask E. C. Meredith, of the State Health Department's Division of Sanitary Engineering, to make a preliminary survey of the sewage problem that has grown out of the heavy development in the Kempsville area and to lesser degree in the Lynnhaven area.

The committee explained that in its opinion the problem is not a simple one and should be solved as quickly as possible.

Webster told the Supervisors that tentatively a $10,000 item has been set up in the budget for the next fiscal year for such an engineering survey, with a possibility that the developers will assist.

The Supervisors, after hearing Kellam on the Lynnhaven Waterways project and the county's cooperative share in its cost, decided to postpone decision on what the county will do on the project.

Kellam explained that the Army Corps of Engineers had indicated that two types of bridge across Long Creek as part of the project would be acceptable: Either a $380,000 high-level structure, of which $240,000 would come from the Federal government, or a $240,000 low-level bridge, requiring $10,000 annual maintenance, of which $10,000 to $15,000 would come from the government.

He explained also that the decision of which of the two bridges is desirable does not have to be made until after Federal funds have been allocated on the $240,000 dredging project.

The Army Corps of Engineers, however, according to Kellam, are anxious to get the local governing body's approval of its part in the project in order that the Lynnhaven project may be submitted for the fiscal 1958 budget.

The county must produce its assurance that releases have been obtained from local water plan. (Continued on Page Four)

CHIEF JOHNSON RETURNED TO DUTY

Rate Of Growth Of Local Schools Greatest In USA

School Superintendent Frank W. Cox told the Princess Anne County Board of Supervisors at their meeting last Monday that, percentage-wise, the growth in school enrollment in the county's schools is the largest not only in Virginia but in the entire Nation.

Cox advised the Supervisors of this fact in stressing the needs in increasing the base and maximum teacher salary scale.

The school superintendent, along with members of the county's school board, explained the school's tentative $2,248,073 budget for next year. He said 70 per cent, or more than $1,600,000, would be required for teacher's salaries.

Advertising Bill Is Introduced

A bill that would permit Virginia Beach to spend as much as five per cent of its annual revenue for advertising has been introduced in the Virginia General Assembly by Delegate Harry B. Davis, of Princess Anne County.

At the present time the city is limited by law to three per cent and the bill is designed to allow Virginia Beach to expend a greater sum if desired to compete in the resort field.

Delegate Davis dropped the bill in the House on Thursday.

Plan For Night School At Beach

For those persons interested, the Virginia Beach School Board would like to offer night school courses. This program would be available to persons not attending day school, but living in Princess Anne County and the City of Virginia Beach.

There will be a meeting held at Virginia Beach High School 7th, at 8:00 P. M. If it should be snowing on that date, the meeting will be held Wednesday, February 9th, at 8:00 P. M. Official Reinstated By Mayor Following Second Statement

Virginia Beach Police Chief Reeves E. Johnson was reinstated to full duty last Friday by Mayor Frank A. Dusch after having been relieved of his duties at his own request after a bench warrant charging him with having solicited someone to assault a newspaper publisher had been issued on Tuesday.

Band Clinic At Princess Anne High School

A county-wide band clinic to be held at Princess Anne High School February 27th and 28th, culminating with a three-band concert Sun., February 29th at 2:00 P. M. in the High School Auditorium.

The purpose of this clinic is to evaluate the instrumental music program in Princess Anne County Schools and to give the public a chance to hear the three levels in instrument instruction. Participating will be students of Princess Anne High School, Virginia Beach High School, and the following elementary schools: Linkhorn, Oceana, Little Creek Court-house, Creeds, W. T. Cooke, Kempsville, Shelton Park, and Bayside.

Guest conductor and clinician will be Mr. Sharon Hoos, Supervisor of music of Charlottesville, Va., and conductor of the well known Lane High School Concert Band. Prominent guest speakers in the musical field will give talks on special phases of instrumental music.

James A. Cantwell, instrumental music director of Princess Anne County Schools, acting as chairman, will be assisted by: Wall Griffith, band director of Va. Beach High School and W. T. Cooke School, R. J. Vermilyea, band director of Linkhorn, Oceana, Courthouse, and Creeds Schools, and George Bailey, band director of Kempsville, Little Creek, Shelton Park, and Bayside Schools.

The complete statement of Mayor Dusch said: "I have just been informed that the one who made these charges has issued a statement admitting his mistaken identity and the Commonwealth's Attorney has said that he will move for dismissal of all charges against Chief Johnson when the case comes to court. I feel that those who have assisted in bringing up these charges against Chief Johnson have done a great injustice, not only to Chief Johnson but to the City of Virginia Beach."

"To say that the whole thing was politically motivated, I think is putting it mildly, and those who are responsible for these ridiculous charges should publicly apologize for their actions. Chief Johnson has rendered valuable service to the City of Virginia Beach and deserves the complete confidence of all the people. In my opinion he has been an outstanding public official and it is a pity that officials have to be subjected to false and erroneous charges such as these and then have to wait restoring him to his position as Chief of Police for the City of Virginia Beach."

Fletcher's statement was made in the early morning hours and was typed by the former Marine in the presence of the Commonwealth's Attorney and official investigators on the spot.

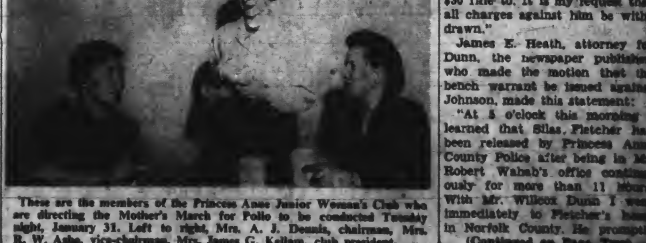

Fletcher read the following statement to representatives of the press at approximately 3 a.m. on Friday:

"After having a long and thoughtful conversation with Reeves Johnson and observing him in a bright light for some time, I am sure that Reeves Johnson is not the man who arrested me in the Jefferson Hotel. He is not the man who propositioned me to beat J. Wilcox Dunn for $500. He is not the man Lloyd Harcum paid the $30 fine to. It is my request that all charges against him be withdrawn."

James E. Heath, attorney for Dunn, the newspaper publisher, who made the motion that the bench warrant be issued against Johnson, made this statement:

"At 5 o'clock this morning I learned that Silas Fletcher had been released by Princess Anne County Police after being in Mr. Robert Wabab's office continuously for more than 11 hours. With Mr. Wilcox Dunn I went immediately to Fletcher's home in Norfolk County. He promptly (Continued on Page Two)

Chief Johnson

(Continued from Page One) accompanied us to the Ledger-Star and Virginian-Pilot Building in Norfolk where he was examined by a physician called at our request and where responsible men are talked to him.

"I'll know what happened to Silas Fletcher during those long hours, I am in no position to comment upon these events."

Dr. S. B. Whitlock, a Norfolk physician, examined Fletcher at the Ledger-Star office about 9 a.m. and said his condition was "within normal limits" when taken into account the fact he had been up all night and under mental strain.

"He does not require medical attention — he's tired," the physician stated.

Fletcher had stated, in reply to a question, when he issued the statement that he had made the statement under no strain or duress nor had he been offered any reward when he signed.

Chief Johnson made the following statement: "I feel certain that this mistake would have never taken place if the case had been handled in the proper channels with Mr. Wabab in full control — handling the case in the manner in which it was his intention and desire."

A Community Damaged

The adverse publicity brought about by the charges brought against Virginia Beach Police Chief Reeves E. Johnson by individuals who apparently have no regard for their community or their fellow man has harmed this community.

The case in point is still another in a long series of created incidents by one or two individuals which have resulted in giving Virginia Beach poor publicity throughout the area, the State and the Nation.

These persons have become obnoxious to most people and still they continue to secure adverse publicity for Virginia Beach and this area.

It is a shame that this community is cursed with this type of resident when the great majority of persons are forever boosting and trying to improve the community. These characters go out of their way to tear down all the good that others try to do.

The City of Virginia Beach is appropriating this year more than $30,000 to advertise and promote this community. The City has done this for several years and just Tuesday Delegate Harry B. Davis, or Princess Anne, introduced a bill in the Virginia General Assembly that would enable the City of Virginia Beach to spend more money for advertising in the future. This is a progressive step but it will not be nearly as effective to spend more money if some persons are allowed to continue to create incidents that put the community in a bad light.

The trumped up charges against Chief Johnson were very aptly described by Mayor Frank Dusch when he said they were "politically motivated." Still they resulted in bad publicity for this fine city and the constant creation of such publicity is damaging the progressive efforts of this progressive city.

March Of Dimes

Four million and five hundred thousand dimes were required to provide hospital treatment alone for Virginia's polio victims in 1955. It has been announced by the Richmond office of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Chapter treasurer reports from about eighty per cent of Virginia counties reveal that more than thirteen hundred polio patients were given financial assistance by Virginia March of Dimes amounting to about $450,000. When all chapters report, this figure is expected to reach $500,000 and is exclusive of equipment, transportation of patients, and medical supplies furnished directly by the National Foundation.

In addition to the $450,000 already spent for patient care, approximately $81,000 is still owed to hospitals by Virginia NFIP Chapters.

In southwest Virginia, five hundred and seventeen patients received medical treatment through March of Dimes. Wythe County alone accounted for eighty-six patients, while Botetourt County with only three patients required $14,500 for patient care. The city of Alexandria, and Fairfax and Arlington Counties spent $138,000 to provide treatment to two hundred and thirty-seven polio patients. The Richmond-Henrico Chapter provided treatment for eighty-three patients. Chesterfield County listed twenty-eight cases for which it provided care in 1955.

During the summer of 1955, 218,000 cc of March of Dimes' gamma globulin were shipped to Virginia for use in areas where polio epidemics threatened. Salk vaccine, financed by March of Dimes funds, was made available to 176,000 first and second grade youngsters. Approximately $125,000 was supplied by the National March of Dimes Emergency Fund, to Virginia chapters.

While the year of 1955 was recorded as a relatively light polio year in Virginia, a State Representative of the National Foundation said that many of the three hundred and thirty-seven cases in 1955 were badly involved and expensive and that final reports may reveal that more than two thousand Virginia polio patients still look to the March of Dimes for care.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:

This communication is intended as a reply to an editorial in the Virginian-Pilot dated Saturday, January 14, 1956 on the question of "Interposition" in which it is stated that "Interposition is nullification."

Also, as a reply to the statement of Delegate Robert Whithead that the "Interposition" is fantasy, a throwback to pre-Civil War days and would, if invoked, make the state of Virginia the laughing stock of the nation.

The two positions are at variance but have the common objective of ridiculing "Interposition."

Nullification means the failure of a state to aid in the enforcement of Federal laws within its limits.

Interposition means that a state would intervene in its own behalf to declare that the decision of the Supreme Court of May 17, 1954 is non-operative and non-existent since it has no legal force or effect and is, consequently, not law, but a political error which sanctions a more erroneous social decree subversive of the rights and liberties of the people. "Interposition" therefore, cannot be nullification because nothing can be nullified that is non-existent.

Mr. Robert Whithead, who is generally regarded as an intelligent gentleman, is reputed to be more desirous of being against something than of being right.

Going back to pre-Civil War days does not necessarily condemn something any more than the Ten Commandments are to be condemned because they are dated Jesus Christ. "Interposition" cannot be fantasy because "Interposition" is real and fantasy is a mental image; an annihilation based upon no solid foundation.

As to the state of Virginia being the laughing stock of the nation, I do not believe that sixteen representatives from fourteen states would ask the state of Virginia to take the lead in "Interposition" if such a course would reduce the state to the point of ridicule.

Inasmuch as fantasy is based upon no solid foundation and "Interposition" has some foundation in effective precedent as well as a realistic present potential, we can discard fantasy and set out the facts that provide the foundation for "Interposition."

What are the facts? The invoking of "Interposition" is not limited to the encroachment of usurpation by the Supreme Court of the United States. It can be invoked against any branch of the Federal Government, Judicial, Legislative or Executive when the people of such state or states feel that an act by any branch violates those reserved rights. It is not something to be entered into lightly or without deliberation, but "Interposition" as James Madison set out, is to be used when an act of the Federal Government is a deliberate, palpable and dangerous breach of the Constitution by the exercise of powers not granted to it.

In the year 1765 Great Britain undertook to make laws for the government of the thirteen American Colonies. A struggle for the right of self government ensued which resulted, on the 4th of July, 1776, in a Declaration by the Colonies, "that they are, and of right ought to be, Free and Independent states; and that they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and do all other acts and things which independent states may of right do. In pursuance of this Declaration of Independence, each of the thirteen states proceeded to exercise its separate sovereignty.

In 1778 they entered into a league or compact known as the Articles of Confederation whereby they agreed to entrust their external affairs to a common agent known as the Congress of the United States expressly declaring that each state retains its sovereignty, freedom and independence and every power, jurisdiction and right not by this Confederation expressly delegated to the United States in Congress assembled.

In 1783, September 3rd, the contest for independence having ended, a definitive treaty was signed by Great Britain in which she acknowledged the independence of the Colonies as follows: to wit: "His Britannic Majesty acknowledges the said United States viz: New Hampshire, Massachusetts, New York, Rhode Island, Providence Plantations, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia to be free, sovereign and independent states; that he treats them as such, and for himself, his heirs and successors relinquish all claims to the government, propriety and territorial rights of the same and every part thereof." Thus was established the two great principles asserted by the Colonies, namely to the right of a state to govern itself; and the right of a people not to bow to a government when it becomes deservive of its ends of which it was instituted.

In 1787 deputies were appointed to revise the Articles of Confederation and in September of that year the deputies recommended for the adoption of the states, the Constitution of the United States. Two of the states did not accede to the Constitution until long after it had gone into operation among the other eleven, and during this interval they operated and exercised the functions of independent nations.

The Constitution imposed certain duties on the several states and the exercise of certain of their powers were restrained, while implied their continued sovereign existence. But, to remove all doubt, an amendment was added, which declared that the powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states, respectively, or to the people.

Thus was established, by compact between the states, a government with defined objects and powers, limited to the express words of the grant.

This limitation left the whole remaining mass of power subject to the clause reserving it to the states or to the people and renders unnecessary, any specification of reserved rights.

So from these facts we arrive at the conclusion that "Interposition" is based upon, a logical foundation and is in no sense of the word fantasy.

Let us, as Virginians, who have had as much to do with valid and reasonable legislation as any people on earth, never forget that in the course of Western Civilization, in the evolution of man, from the state of nature to Civil Government, he has sought to erect, for himself a system that would guarantee him individual freedom and personal security. In the process he yielded some freedom in exchange for the collection of the security of the state. Such as protection from external aggression and to retain internal order, but he placed ultimate sovereignty in himself and restrained the state by placing limits within which it must work.

From the time of the Mayflower Compact in 1620, through the adoption of our state Constitution, the Articles of Confederation, the Declaration of Independence and the Federal Constitution every document which went into the building of this country acknowledged that same philosophy and pledged fidelity to it. Throughout our history no individual has been sovereign and the state has been servant. Are we now going to abandon that principle because nine men, highly overrated, because they are members of the Supreme Court, issue an order, subversive of the interests and liberty of the people, with their minds attuned to the election returns? I do not believe we have become that weak.

The 18th Amendment is an outstanding example of the perilousness of trying to force the people, by pressure groups and politics, to conform to that in which they have no heart or belief.

Law resides in the will of the people and it has no force or effect without that will.

If we adopt the philosophy of never resisting Federal usurpation of the matters and things reserved to the states, then we may as well abolish the State Constitutions and become so many wards of an over-riding and centralized, overbearing, which, with increasing power and abuse, will become in practice, a monarchy. R. L. Woodward, Jr.

ters, that a marina would be provided with facilities for commercial craft, and that disposal of dredging materials will be taken care of.

In other action, the Supervisors approved rezoning from industrial to commercial or a 200-foot section between the old McGinnis Industrial Center, Seelinger Drive and the Military Highway as a buffer zone.

Clarence A. Patterson, attorney for the Baltimore Bank for Co-operatives, owners of the industrial section, told the Supervisors that, in his opinion, the bank would resist the rezoning. The Supervisors received a pe-tion from the Ocean Park Civic League asking for relief because of erosion of Chesapeake Bay beaches in the area. It was explained that Ocean Park and Chesapeake Beach have privately owned beaches and that the county cannot enter into any plan to preserve them. However, the matter will be referred to the Army Corps of Engineers for possible relief.

M. Lu Goodman, certified public accountant, reported in his audit for the year ending June 30, 1955, total county revenues of $3,770,650 and total operating expenses of $2,272,527, of which approximately $1,500,000 went to school operating costs.

Goodman said tax collections of $1,235,474 represented almost 66 per cent of the levy, against 66.97 per cent of the previous fiscal year's collections.

LAFF OF THE WEEK

DALE CARNEGIE

Martin Thomas, 1037 S. Western Avenue, Los Angeles, California, not so long ago was a hopeless and helpless alcoholic who had reached the end of his mental and physical endurance. He sat one night on a cliff overlooking the ocean trying to convince himself of just one reason why he should not jump off the cliff and end it all.

All his tension had been brought on by worry and fear based on his being an alcoholic. Even though he had known for many years that he was an alcoholic and a sick person, he couldn't accept the fact that it was impossible for him to drink as he did and yet act like other people. As a result he had spent years worrying and fighting the inevitable. The more he worried the more he drank and more he drank the more he worried.

Just a vicious circle from which there had been no escape. At the age of 42, he had lost his wife, his children, his business and all of his friends. As he sat on that cliff he cried out in despair and gave up in total surrender. This was the end.

Suddenly he tried to reason with himself and a feeling of peace came over him. Turnoff ceased, and he was no longer fighting. Then he realized that by admitting defeat, becoming willing to cooperate with the inevitable, he had won the greatest battle of his life.

Since then he has had no desire to go back and resume a battle in which he already had accepted defeat. Many things he had lost have been regained. He has accepted the others, and in so doing peace has come into his life.

VA Benefits Are Revised

Certain persons who entered the Armed Forces under the new 1955 Reserve Forces Act may be entitled to specified benefits while in service and after their release. The ones generally affected are those up to age 18½ years who enlist for eight years in the Ready Reserve, and are required to serve an initial active training period of six months only. The explanation of these provisions was released today by Thomas A. Moore, Area Director of the Virginia State Division of War Veterans' Claims, from the office at 305 McKevitt Building, Norfolk. Moore outlined these legislative privileges as follows:

Service members' Indemnity—automatically covers the service member against death in service for $10,000, and coverage continues for 30 days after separation.

Post-Service G. I. Insurance—which is granted only to those found by VA to have service-connected disabilities for which compensation is, or would be, payable if 10% or more in degree; and who do not have non-service-connected disabilities that make them uninsurable. Applications must be made within one year from the date VA finds the disability to be service-connected. A physical examination is required. Seven plans of insurance are available, but all are non-participating.

Disability Compensation—those released under honorable conditions who have incurable or disease incurred in or aggravated by duty may qualify for compensation after release, ranging from $14 to $145, depending on the degree. There are statutory awards for amputations, blindness, etc. If the disability resulted from extra hazardous service the awards range from $17 to $181. Additional compensation is paid for a wife, children, or dependent parents, only for those rated 50% or more disabled.

Medical Care—hospitalization, out-patient medical treatment, and prosthetic service are available for those with service-connected disabilities who were honorably discharged for such disabilities, or are receiving compensation for them. Non-service-connected disabilities may be treated in a VA hospital only if beds are available.

Out-patient Dental Treatment—available only to those honorably discharged from service-connected disabilities, or who receives compensation for such disabilities. All released Reservists are not entitled to dental care, and some only under certain conditions. Moore advised those who wish detailed information to contact his office for full explanation. Generally, the dental condition must be service-connected, preferably compensable degree, or the dental ailment must be aggravating another service condition. As a rule, treatment is only given one time, and application must be made within one year from release, except for compensable or service-connected dental conditions.

Domestic Care—which is available to those who meet the general eligibility requirements for hospitalization are incapacitated from earning a living, have no adequate means of support, and do not need full time hospital or nursing care.

Aid for the Blind—available to blinded veterans who are entitled to compensation for service-connected disabilities, whether blindness is service-connected or not, and include special attention such as equipment and seeing-eye dogs. Death Compensation—For widows, children and dependent parents of person whose deaths were incurred in or due to service. Moore's office can explain the definition of "widow," "children," and "dependency" of the parent.

Burial expenses, up to $150 may be paid by VA to the person who paid the expenses or to the undertaker, only if the released Reservist was receiving compensation at time of death, or had been segregated for service-connected disabilities.

NEWS FOR VETERANS

Ninety-five out of every 100 veterans with heart and circulatory ailments, rehabilitated through Public Law 16 training, are working today as productive wage-earning citizens, a Veterans Administration survey disclosed.

Only a few doors to employment have been barred to these veterans because of their disabilities. VA said. They can be found in farms and factories, offices and laboratories—virtually everywhere in America.

Eighty-six percent of the employed veterans are using skills they acquired in training, and 98 percent like the kind of work they are doing, the survey showed.

Of the veterans not working, half said they were unemployed for reasons not related to their heart or circulatory disabilities. VA's follow-up study was made to find out what happened to disabled veterans after they finished or stopped Public Law 16 training and started making their own way in life.

It covered a representative sampling of the 600,000 disabled World War II veterans who received vocational rehabilitation training under Public Law 16. About 40,000 of the veterans suffered from heart and circulatory disabilities.

The work record of veterans with heart and circulatory conditions has paralleled the record of veterans with other disabilities who were rehabilitated through Public Law 16 training, VA said.

This proportion holding jobs was about the same for both groups—around 95 percent. Again, in both groups, nine out of ten of the employed veterans were working full-time. The tenth was on the job part-time.

The average weekly income was nearly the same for both groups—more than $70 a week. Veterans with heart and circulatory ailments changed jobs at a slightly higher rate than did veterans with other disabilities. According to the VA survey, 27 out of 100 of the heart and circulatory group changed jobs once compared with 22 out of 100 of the rest of the disabled.

Dr. McLean has worked in many parts of the world and is currently working to make the gladiolus fragrant. He announced that a spring class for amateur gardeners will be held at Virginia Beach, beginning about February 23, 1956.

Mrs. Fred Barham, president, welcomed Mrs. G. F. Pittard, a new member to the club.

Those winning awards for arrangements: Mrs. Fred Barham, two gold and one blue ribbon; Mrs. C. G. Baughman, a gold ribbon; Mrs. W. H. Darden, a blue ribbon; Mrs. E. A. Hoffmeister, a blue ribbon; Mrs. W. E. Broke, a blue ribbon; Mrs. C. M. Rau, a blue ribbon.

Mrs. J. G. Traflet won a blue ribbon for a specimen in the horticulture class.

Those interested in joining the Association may do so at the meeting or by calling Mrs. John Doyle Jr., a Linlith 3747.

New Farm Corn Allotment Are Available Now

Any producer who intends to plant corn in 1956 on a farm where no corn was planted during the years 1953, 1954 or 1955 must apply for a corn acreage allotment if he wants price support on his farm in 1956. W. F. Hunter, Chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said today. Marketing quotas do not apply to corn, the chairman explained. However, under the acreage allotment program, the production of corn in 1956 on a farm which has no corn acreage allotment would make all the corn produced on such farm ineligible for price support in 1956.

Application forms for a corn acreage allotment are available at the County AGC office. February 15, 1956 is the last day such applications may be filed.

Mrs. K. Wunder Speaks To Birdneck Club

"Don't forget to care for your oaks and pines when you prepare your garden for Spring," was an important factor brought out in Mrs. Karl Wunder's report to the Bird Neck Point Garden Club when they met for their regular meeting last week at the home of Mrs. William Ferrell. Mrs. Wunder, horticulture chairman, emphasized the need to feed those larger trees and keep them free of any dead or broken branches due to hurricanes or disease. When larger branches are removed it is necessary to paint the exposed area with tar pitch. Since the beauty of yards is enhanced by shrubs and it is important that they are not neglected when spring planning is done.

Among other tips offered in the talk were that now is the time to prune all deciduous trees and shrubs except those flowering in the spring. Pyracantha, crepe myrtle, althea and hydrangeas may also be trimmed now.

Mrs. E. R. Coffman, special events chairman, reported that final plans were completed and all her chairmen were working on the card party and style show to be held February 8th at the American Legion Home. She announced that the fashions would be presented by Florence Wilson.

Mrs. R. S. Crenshaw and Mrs. J. J. Sutherland, who co-hosted with Mrs. Ferrell, presided at the desert table before the business meeting began.

Blue ribbon winners in the foliage and berry arrangement class were: Mrs. Otha Lovitt, Mrs. A. S. Rosenkrans, Jr., Mrs. Crenshaw and Mrs. Sutherland.

New Transportation Officer at this Cape Henry post is Maj. George E. Thibodeau, Maj. Thibodeau placed Maj. Marlin W. Ramsey, who was Transportation Officer from Oct. 1954, to Jan. 1956.

Maj. Ramsey is now executive officer of Ft. Story's 1st Transportation Battalion.

The Transportation Officer's last assignment was in Istanbul, Turkey. Maj. Thibodeau's decorations include six battle stars and the Korean citation.

Ft. Story personnel turned out in force to meet a 150-pint quota when the Red Cross Bloodmobile visited the post Jan. 16.

The recently re-activated 156th Terminal Service Company, one of the top units of its kind in the Transportation Corps, received its guidon flag from Post Commander Col. George E. Woods Jr., Jan. 19. During the ceremony recognizing the re-activation of the 156th, Col. Woods called the unit "proud and battle tested."

The 156th received the Presidential Unit Citation for the role it played in the Korean conflict. The unit also turned in a commendable performance in 1953, when it moved more than 200,000 tons of cargo in a single month.

Thirty outstanding students in the 56th class in operation and maintenance of the amphibious truck have been sent to an advanced amphibious vehicle maintenance school after completing six weeks of an eight-week course conducted by the 1st Transportation Battalion's 8th Student Company. Top man in the group was Pvt. Edward Love, who had an average of 97.3 for his six weeks of instruction.

New S-3 (operations, plans and training officer) for the 570th Transportation Battalion is Capt. Milton L. LeGault. Capt. LeGault replaced Capt. Reginald Desig, who moved to the battalion S-4 (supply officer) slot.

The new S-3's last assignment was with the 2nd Transportation Terminal Command C, Yokohama, Japan. Before being assigned to the 2nd TTC C, Capt. LeGault served with the Korean Military Advisory Group in 1951 and 1952.

Specialist Third Class Donnie E. Masters, Headquarters Company, 5th Transportation Terminal Command B, has received the Good Conduct Medal. The award was presented for Specialist Master's "exemplary behavior, efficiency, and fidelity while in the active Federal Military Service," from January 29, 1953, to January 14, 1956.

STORY SPORTS

Fort Story's DUKWs were host to the Virginia State College quintet last week losing to the collegians, 104-81. The winners were never threatened as they piled up an early lead and held it for the remainder of the game. Channie Parrish led the DUKW's scoring with 24 points.

Earlier, the soldiers dropped an 82-65 decision to the Naval Air Station cagers at Norfolk. High point man for the losers in that contest was Hank McQueeney with 12. The former Providence College cager also led his team's output in the week's remaining game as he scored 14 points in the DUKW's 75-53 loss to the Little Creek Naval Amphibious Base.

Intramural Bowling concluded the first half of a round-robin schedule with a clear-cut winner in the American division and a deadlock in the National loop. Headquarters Company, 5th Transportation Terminal Command "B" topped the American Division with a 23-1 record, and enters the second round of play as favorites for the season championship. In the National division, a tie between the 604th and 461st DUKW Companies necessitates a playoff series. Both teams finished with a 23-5 slate.

Post Bowlers continue to ride in fourth place in the Hampton Roads Interservice League. Top Story kegler is Lester Schirich, whose 182 average places him in the top ten scorers in the league.

Basketball Benefit Is Local Sports Attraction For March Of Dimes

"Help the March of Dimes and help yourself to an evening of top entertainment at the same time." This is the thought of many of those planning to attend the basketball doubleheader Friday night in the high school gym.

The Virginia Seahawks who, by winning two games last week, find themselves in the thick of the battle for Conference Championship, will entertain the Lousburg College Freshman from North Carolina.

Before the boys game gets underway, the Virginia Beach Surf Queens, local AAU girls team will take on the Lousburg College asters. This gives the local fans an opportunity to see boys and girls play on the same program as they did before the high school discontinued girls basketball this season.

The Virginia Beach Sports Club is sponsoring this top sports attraction and are expecting a fine turnout for this worthy cause.

Members of the Sports Club have tickets for the event.

Norfolk's New Ice Skating Arena Is Attracting Crowds of Enthusiasts

The recently opened ICE PLAZA has been drawing tremendous crowds of ice skaters and spectators. Located on East 18th street, across from the V T C Car barn, it is easily reached by all buses in Norfolk, and ample parking area is available for those driving.

Norfolk's newest sports facility is filling a highly desirable and much needed recreation activity. The ready acceptance and huge crowds are ample proof of the people interested in ice skating. The new arena is the first in Virginia as well as in Norfolk, and it is believed to be the largest and most modern of its type in the United States. The overall investment represents an expenditure of in excess of $300,000. The plans were drawn up after an inspection of many of the largest arenas and all of the most modern equipment and design have been incorporated to give ice skating enthusiasts the best possible in this field.

There are in excess of 1200 pairs of skates available for rental and additional ones are on order for delivery. The arena has skates on sale for those who wish to purchase their own. Also lockers may be rented for a nominal fee.

Those who wish to take lessons will have the benefit of expert instructors. Adult and children classes are set up and for those who desire it private lessons may be arranged. Appointments for class arrangements may be made by calling MA 2-9640. The box office opens nightly at 7 P. M. and the arena is open every evening until 11 P. M. Matinee schedules are Wednesday from 3:30 to 5 P. M., Saturday 10:30 A. M. to 1 P. M. and from 2:30 P. M. to 5 P. M., Sunday from 2:30 P. M. to 5 P. M.

Officers of the company are R. B. Rowland Jr., President. W. J. Rowland, V. Pres., & Treasurer, Ed M. Kosiej, Secretary. Mr. W. J. Rowland is well known in this area as former partner of the firm of Smith & Rowland founded in 1920, one of the pioneers in the fertilizer business here.

The firm later became Smith-Douglas - as it now operates - and Mr. Rowland sold his interests in 1939. Since then he has been in semi-retirement and engaging in building projects in this section.

"The economy is in the pink of condition. Business was never better. Workers never had it so good. Old Man Prosperity 'just keeps rolling along,'" Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks told the national sales conference of the U. S. Savings Bonds Division recently. Bond sales were up 12% in the first 10 months of 1955 compared to the 1954 period.

250th Franklin Anniversary Commemorated in Painting

ONE of America's great citizens, Benjamin Franklin, who wrote in his will that he wished to be known to history merely as "a printer," is shown in this Philadelphia printing shop in this original painting by Dean Cornwell. The painting, commissioned by the New York Life Insurance Company, commemorates the 250th anniversary of the birth of Franklin, on January 17, 1706. Scientist, inventor, author and publisher, Franklin became a printing apprentice at 12 and at 24 became sole owner and editor of the Pennsylvania Gazette. Philadelphia's first bookseller and the founder of America's first circulating library, Franklin gained lasting fame through his annual publication of Poor Richard's Almanack. At the age of 32, he turned to science, and subsequently proved the identity of lightning and electricity with his famous kite experiment. As a diplomat and statesman, Franklin contributed toward his country's victory in the Revolutionary War as well as to the adoption of the proposed Constitution.

Hospital Assoc. Elects Officers

Tidewater Hospital Service Association, the Blue Cross Plan serving Tidewater Virginia, held its annual meeting in late December, the main item of business the election of officers and Directors for the coming year.

James Mann, Jr., Norfolk Attorney, was re-elected president and Dr. Walter B. Martin, prominent Norfolk internist, was re-elected Vice-president. Dr. Martin, who is also immediate past president of the American Medical Association, has been a Director of the Blue Cross Plan since its inception 20 years ago. Denwood N. Kelly, was re-elected Executive Director and Secretary-Treasurer. The other Directors, all prominent in the Norfolk, Portsmouth, and Virginia Beach areas, are Harriet Allcock, R. N., of the Virginia Beach Hospital; Paul J. Canady, William P. Dickson, Jr., Gaston S. Foote, Dr. R. Bryan Ginnin, Jr., Euclid M. Hanbury, Roy R. Charles, W. T. Mason, Abner S. Pope, R. L. Sheets, Dr. C. C. Smith, and Vernon A. Tierney.

In his annual report to the Directors, Kelly pointed out that during the past year the Blue Cross Plan provided hospital services to its members which had a value of well over a million dollars and that the money expended for these services amounted to 89.2% of all income received. He noted that in the year just past, the average Blue Cross patient stayed in the hospital about 7 days each time he was admitted and that an average of 131 out of every 1,000 members of the Plan were hospitalized during the year.

This utilization of benefits by members was higher than it had been previously and was the major factor in the revision of rates which became effective on October 1, 1955. Kelly also mentioned that during the year the Plan had increased its membership by about 10% and now had well over 75,000 members.

He stressed the point that the percentage of income expended by the Plan for benefits to its members is higher than in the past and gives no indication of being significantly reduced. The major cause for this high expense is that a greater percentage of Plan members are being hospitalized now than in the past. Actual hospital cost are still increasing, but not to the extent that they were in previous years. He said that all Blue Cross Plans were seriously concerned with this increase in utilization and that it was felt that some admissions to the hospital were often unnecessary. He hoped that members of the Plan would realize that such unnecessary use could only result in additional expense and, higher membership fees.

From inquiries received at the Blue Cross office it was apparent that more interest than ever before was being expressed in the voluntary prepayment plans, particularly those operated on a non-profit basis like Blue Cross and Blue Shield. All seven of the public hospitals in the area are fully participating in the local Blue Cross Plan; they are Virginia Beach Hospital, Norfolk General Hospital, Depaul Hospital, Leigh Memorial Hospital, Norfolk Community Hospital, Maryview Hospital and Kings Daughters Hospital.

Our national forest lands contain over 90,000 miles of fishing streams, 2,250,000 acres of lakes, and about one third of all big game animals; except for a few wildlife refuges, this is open to the public.—Sports Afield.

Cause of increasing number of cases of back trouble among women is probably due to the type of floor they walk on all day long. The MIXING BOWL..

IT'S Fun TO COOK

By LUCILE CLARK,
SUN-NEWS FOOD EDITOR

For the very latest in food fads and fables... for practical, down-to-earth recipes that please both palate and pocketbook, read the "Mixing Bowl" by Lucile Clark each Thursday in the Sun-News.

Hi there! January 1956 is almost gone - time simply flies - but no matter how fast, we are always thinking of how to best feed our family with good wholesome foods, yet not to be monotonous. It keeps Mom scratching around almost continuously finding new ways to prepare "old faithfuls," shall we say? Maybe disguising some of them - but always in mind the best nourishing food for my family.

Soup is still a favorite and it's always nice to find new ideas for ways of serving soup.

Whether you bring out an old forgotten copper coffee pot or beautiful old limestone tureen, a heat-proof glass pitcher - you can be certain soup will be treated for family or company.

Even the hushers have welcomed a thermos full of hot Bouillon or consommé while out in that duck blind waiting for the ducks to come in. Good old soup is a favorite most everywhere.

If you're planning to have a crowd in I can think of no better way to heat and serve soup for a crowd than in an enormous electric fryer? All the soup can be heated at one time and can be ladled from the fryer.

Here's a combination that will bring you three cheers. It's called Three Cheere Chowder for 12 servings.

Two cans bean and bacon soup
Two cans condensed tomato soup
Two cans condensed vegetable soup

Six cans water

It's always so nice to get "soup notes" from Anne Marshall at Campbell's Kitchens and right away I think of sharing them with you. Here are some, and Lobster Thermidor recipe for your next party.

Soup - On - The - Side

Soup - on - the - side has been creating a stir of excitement wherever folks talk soup. "Slippable" soups, served in cups, go right along with breakfast, lunch, or dinner. They're nourishing hot beverages that get a grand reception from toddlers to old-timers.

When kiddies balk at that glass of milk every meal, vary the beverage with a milk-mated soup. When your needs a "lift," or the youngsters come home from school

In search of a snack... hot buttered bouillon and crackers. Or steaming cups of tomato soup and pretzels. And for a cooling beverage... bouillon-on-the-rock!

"Drinkable" soups are best-suited to serving in cups. Could be cream soups, tomato, green pea, bouillon or consommé. In fact, most any kind. Combinations of these are also recommended.

"Cupped" soups look twice as tempting with toppings.

Cream Soups: Parsley, Green Pepper, Pimiento, Toasted Almonds.

Bouillon and Consommé: Lemon, Cheese Croquettes, Cereal Bits, Chopped Carrot.

Tomato and Green Pea: Popcorn, Pretzel Sticks, Shredded Cheese, Bacon Bits.

Soup in cups is wonderful for parties. It's the easiest thing in the world to prepare, and is so handy for guests.

Cups, mugs, and tumblers are wonderful for soup. Serve hot, "pourable" soups in cups; ice-cold bouillon-on-the-rocks in a glass; and chilled, lemon-garnished consommé in a bowl. Cups are also decorative filled with flowers, cigarettes, or nuts.

For the party coming up soon, how about LOBSTER THERMIDOR? Bake it in individual casseroles, so each guest can have her own "picture-pretty" portion.

LOBSTER THERMIDOR

1 Cup sliced mushrooms (or 4-ounce can, drained)
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 can (10 ounces) frozen condensed cream of shrimp soup
1 cup diced lobster (5-ounce can)
Fourth cup milk
Fourth teaspoon dry mustard
Dash cayenne
Grated Parmesan cheese
Paprika
Bread Crumbs

Combine beef, egg, crumbs, milk and salt; shape into small meatballs (about 16). Brown meatballs

A safe, easy way to gather up small bits of broken glass is to put them up with dampened absorbent cotton.

When unused postage stamps stick together, lay a thin paper over them and run a moderately hot iron over the paper. The stamps will come apart and remain usable.

With a safety pin, fasten a dust cloth around your floor mop. The cloth will be easier to shake out and launder than the mop.

To remove stains and whiten your sink, fill it with hot water and add Pine-Sol. Drain twenty minutes later and the stains will be gone.

When you peel apples, place them in a bowl of cold, slightly salted water. This will keep them from turning brown before you're ready to use them.

Drooping house plants? Leave it in the bathroom for a few days—the warm steaminess will do it good.

For safety's sake, don't coat burns with butter, as butter may turn rancid and infect the burn. Instead, use petroleum jelly and a sterile bandage.

Brown mushrooms lightly in butter. Add soup, lobster, milk, mustard and cayenne; heat slowly stirring frequently. Spoon lobster mixture into individual baking dishes; sprinkle cheese, paprika, and bread crumbs on top. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 15 minutes. 3 servings.

The complete menu might be: Chilled Tomato Juice, Lobster Thermidor, Buttered Asparagus, Hot Buttered Rolls, Relishes, Fruit Tray, Sugar Cookies, Coffee or Milk.

Silvered green beans are tempting when they're cooked with a teaspoon of sugar in the water. When just done, season with salt, pepper, butter and a dash of cream.

Welsh rarebit is a wonderful dish for a cold night, as anyone knows, but what about adding a can of salmon, drained and flaked to the rarebit to make it more substantial and delicious when appetites are ravenous?

An elegant sauce for a green vegetable such as broccoli, asparagus or green beans in a cup of rich cream heated and seasoned with salt and pepper. Add to it two hard-cooked rice eggs and blend thoroughly with the cream.

There is not a ham sandwich that can't be improved by adding some slices of apple placed on top of the ham before you put on the second slice of bread. If you prefer, you may place a layer of cold sole on the ham? Either of these foods add a wonderful crispness to the sandwich.

Canned pears made into a dessert are luscious. Grate some candied ginger over them, top with vanilla custard pudding and some caramel sauce.

Two cups cooked rice
Two teaspoons minced onion
One can condensed cream of mushroom soup
Third cup water
Fourth cup chopped parsley
Fourth cup grated American cheese

Combine rice, onion, soup, water and parsley; mix well. Pour into greased 1-quart casserole. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake in a moderate (350 degree F.) oven for 15 minutes.

Notes from YOUR COUNTY AGENT

BY E. R. "DICK" COCKRELL, JR.
PRINCESS ANNE COUNTY AGRICULTURAL AGENT

IT PAYS TO PUT UP GOOD FENCING

It pays to invest in good materials for long-lasting farm fencing. Now is a good time to be planning the fencing that will be needed this year. If you're using softwood posts, be sure they are treated, either commercially or on the farm. Treated posts will last 20 to 30 years longer. The naturally long-lived hardwoods are often hard to find.

A new brazing, using horizontal wood and diagonal wire braces, is being recommended. Be sure you get the correct materials. County agents can give details. On level ground the braces should be a maximum of 40 yards apart. On hilly ground the braces should be closer together, depending on contour of the land.

Buy good grade wire. The heavier wire is longer lasting and withstands rough usage. For a will serve for sheep, hogs, and cattle, use a 32" woven wire with two strands of barbed wire on top.

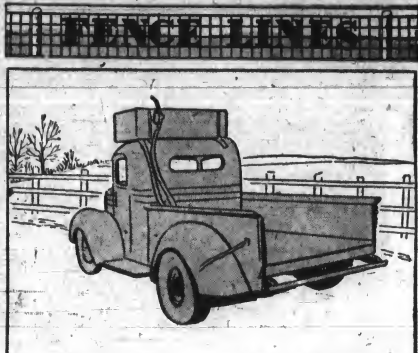

The new L-shaped stronghold staple with threaded shank is the best staple to use. Get the low-carbon steel for treated soft woods, the hardened-high-carbon steel staple for hardwood. If the L-shaped staple is not available, use the long U-shaped 1 1/2" staple for treated wood.

NITROGEN NEEDED FOR SMALL GRAINS

Plenty of available nitrogen during the early spring is essential for profitable small grain production.

That's the reminder that use of nitrogen as a topdressing is particularly important following high yields of crops during the food nutrients were used.

Soil fertility is a primary factor in determining the amount of nitrogen to use. On medium fertile soils, 20 to 25 pounds per acre will usually be enough. Low fertility or sandy soil generally need more nitrogen, probably up to 50 pounds per acre.

Soils with high fertility will not usually need additional nitrogen, particularly those with high organic content. Nitrogen should be used with care to prevent lodging of small grain. However, any nitrogen that can be used up to the point of promoting lodging, will be profitable if applied at the proper time.

On soils low in phosphorus and potash, a complete fertilizer applied at the rate to give the suggested amounts of nitrogen is recommended.

Tests have shown that early applications are most profitable. Topdressing before March 1 in the coastal and southern Piedmont, and by March 15 in the rest of the state. Nitrogen should be applied before there is much growth of the crop. Late applications of nitrogen tend to stimulate growth of straw at the expense of grain. Nitrogen topdressing is doubly important on small grains that will be used for grazing, silage and hay. Higher rates may be used in these cases as lodging becomes less likely when the crops are harvested early.

Small grains that were heavily grazed in the fall and early winter, and which will be grazed in the spring, will need more nitrogen than those used for grain only or those grazed lightly.

GARDEN QUESTION BOX

Can an arborvitae that is too tall be cut back several feet without killing it?

Yes, the upright form can be cut back several feet. Early spring, just before growth starts, is the time to cut them back. The globe arborvitae cannot be cut back as severely.

Just recently I set out two shade trees in my front yard. Is there any special care I should give these trees this winter?

Be sure the trees have been staked or guyed. Mulch with straw or sawdust. Water if needed. Wrap the trunk with burlap.

When should boxwood be pruned? Pruning boxwood is a necessary and important operation. The best time for pruning is just before growth starts in the spring. Start by removing weak and crowded branches from the top center of the plant. When necessary, shorten the large branches. Continue this thinning of branches over the entire upper half of plant. This operation will keep plant at the desired size. In dwarf plants, remove all dead leaves that have fallen into the branches.

My spreading juniper is getting to large. When and how can it be pruned?

Spreading juniper can be pruned any time. Remove the outer branches. It is best to start pruning when the plants are small, usually the first year after they come from the nursery. Then, if they are pruned a little each year, the severe pruning which exposes bare branches will not be necessary.

REPELLENTS SAVE TREES FROM RABBIT DAMAGE

Trees and shrubs painted or sprayed with a repellent will be less subject to rabbit damage.

Rabbits often cause serious damage to trees and shrubs by nibbling off shoots, branches, leaves and buds, and by gnawing and peeling off bark. Wherever rabbits are numerous, trees and shrubs need some protection.

Several effective repellents have been developed. These chemicals are harmless to plants and the amount that farm animals may get from eating treated foliage is not likely to poison them.

The following commercial preparations containing the chemicals can be bought from insecticide dealers: Black Leaf 40, a liquid sold as an insecticide; or Arasan SP-X, and Tersan 75, powders sold as fungicides.

For application as a rabbit repellent, any one of these preparations can be mixed with a carrying agent to dilute it and make it stick to trees and shrubs in all kinds of weather. An asphalt water emulsion for this purpose can be bought from almost any dealer in building supplies or petroleum by products.

One gallon of asphalt water emulsion, 1 1/2 gallons of water, 1 pound of household detergent, and 1 quart of Black Leaf 40, thoroughly mixed, make 3 gallons of repellent paint. It can be diluted for a spray by adding 1 more gallon of water and a pint of Black Leaf 40.

One gallon of asphalt water emulsion to 2 gallons of water, plus 4 pounds of Arasan stirred in and mixed thoroughly, makes 3 1/2 gallons of paint. This cannot be diluted for a spray.

One gallon of asphalt water emulsion to an equal amount of water, with 2 pounds of Arasan SP-X or Tersan 75 mixed in, makes 2 1/4 gallons of paint. To make a spray, dilute with another gallon of water and an extra pound of Arasan SP-X or Tersan 75.

Apply repellent to the trunk of the tree or shrub from the base to a point high enough to be out of the reach of rabbits. Remember the rabbits can feed higher when snow drifts are around the plant.

Insecticide and fungicide materials may be poisonous. Keep them out of the reach of children and observe all precautions on the label.

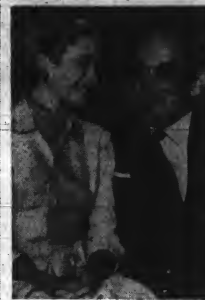

USE WIRE TO PROTECT BERRIES, SMALL TREES

One-inch poultry mesh wire or cord netting will keep birds from ruining the fruit crop on berry plants or small trees.

The mesh wire can be stretched over any small trees or bushes needing protection. In some cases, cheesecloth might be advisable, especially if the fruits ripen when Japanese beetles are flying.

Original cost of the wire or netting might seem high but it can be used for 10 years or more if cared for and stored properly, thus bringing the overall cost down to a reasonable level.

Daylight Basements

Home owners want basements in their new homes, the West Coast Lumbermen's Association reports on a recent survey of home style trends. People want their basements light and cheerful. Planning ahead to larger families, they want to leave basement unfinished now for storage, and finish rooms and play space later. GOD IN THE DARK

Two hymns we often sing express two great aspects of our faith. The first is Maltese Babcock's hymn, "This Is My Father's World." It goes:

This is my Father's world:
He shines in all that's fair;
In the rustling grass I hear Him pass.

He speaks to me everywhere:
The second is the familiar hymn, "Hearer, My God, to Thee," by Sarah Flower Adams. It says:

Oh, though it be a cross that
Lies on my path,
Still all my songs shall be,
Hearer, my God, to Thee,
Hearer to Thee.

The first hymn speaks of finding God in the loveliness of nature. There are few of us, surely, who have not found Him there. The second hymn speaks quite a different note. It suggests that one can find God not only in pleasant experiences but also in the dark and painful areas of our life. "Hearer, my God, to Thee—ever though it be a cross that lies on my path."

The writers of these two hymns represent the two ways of finding God. As you read Maltese Babcock's hymn you would suspect that he was a bounding, buoyant person without ever a care. So, indeed, he was. He never knew a day of illness, was an all-round athlete, an expert swimmer, a successful speaker. He entered the ministry, married happily, became pastor of one of the country's great churches where he served with distinction for many years. Because he was this sort of person it was not too hard for Maltese Babcock to see God, all around him.

him to feel that "He speaks to me everywhere."

Sarah Flower, author of the second hymn, had a different experience. She had one ambition only—to succeed on the stage. She rapidly ascended the ladder to a fame well earned by her brilliant gifts. Then her health broke. She had to face the fact that she would never be able to achieve her heart's ambition. In and through that experience she found not bitterness, not disillusionment, but God. She wrote:

Ever though it be a cross that
Lies on my path,
Still all my songs shall be,
Hearer, my God, to Thee,
Hearer to Thee.

GOD WHERE WE NEED HIM

Without in any way belittling the experience of Maltese Babcock, we can say that the experience of Sarah Flower is one more fitting to our time. There are so many rough and unpleasant places in our life; what if we could find God in them?

One of the fine friendships in a former parish was with a man who had once been lashed by alcohol. He was down and out and knew it. To see him today, distinguished in appearance, widely known and respected in his profession, you would never believe that this man was once that other man. One day he realized the real horror of his plight. He knew he could not pull out of it. But in his desperation he came to believe there was a Power that could help him. So, not in the land of comfort, but in the land of darkness and despair, he found God.

You have heard the familiar argument that because the world is such a bad place it is impossible to believe in God. But others have reached a different way. When they came to their dark places, they did not surrender their faith in God. Rather, they found it anew. They learned to sing:

So by my woes to be
Hearer, my God, to Thee—
Perhaps out of the dilemma and agony of our time a new vision of God will emerge. This we know, that God has been wonderfully found in dark, unpromising places.

Faith Outbound

This is a scene you see every Sunday . . . hundreds of men and women pouring out of our churches. What effect does it have on the life of our community?

There was more happiness in our streets this week . . . more sympathy and understanding . . . more kindness and helpfulness . . . more determination to attain the highest moral and spiritual ideals.

We won't see Utopia next week. Human nature is still human. Perfection is God's alone. But crowded churches change many lives. Worship and prayer strengthen souls. The seed God plants never dies, if we are determined to cultivate it.

Come to Church next Sunday. And when you leave, you and our community will be richer because you were there.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor in our search for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For the sake of his children's souls. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and send your own share.

Day . . . Book Chapter Verses
Sunday . . . Matthew 6:28-34
Monday . . . Mark 10:13-16
Tuesday . . . Luke 12:1-5
Wednesday . . . Philippians 3:17-18
Thursday . . . Hebrews 13:14-16
Friday . . . 1st Th. 5:16-18
Saturday . . . 1st Th. 5:16-18

Older Homes Are Easy to Remodel
Nine out of ten U. S. homes are framed with lumber, the Wood Coast Lumbermen's Association homes are 50, 60 and 70 years old. Modernization is needed. Remodelers find it easy to rewire and replumb these older frame homes because there is space in the frame walls to conceal these installations. Most of these older homes which were framed in about the days of Douglas as sound as the day they were built. And they are easily restyled without too much chance to conform to modern home design.

GARDEN GUIDE

SHADE TREE SHOPPING

No time of the year is more ideal than the present for visiting your local nursery garden center and selecting a shade tree for planting this month. All deciduous trees (those that lose their leaves in winter) are completely dormant now. They are still deep in their winter sleep and are quite easily and safely moved. They are moved with complete success in this dormant stage and give you the assurance of grafting results next spring when they awake from their winter sleep and buds swell into leaf and shoots. Prices on these shade trees are also cheaper now than they will be later in the season because while in this dormant stage, the smaller trees may be moved bare root without the expense of digging and trucking large balls of soil with them. The best part about bare root moving is that everyone benefits. The nurseryman can do the job quicker with less cost to him hence less cost to you.

WHAT TO SELECT

The type of shade tree to select will depend upon several different factors. First, consider the location of the proposed planting site in relation to possible salt spray contamination. Some trees will take a little salt spray, but others absolutely will have no part of it. The newest arrival on the list of high salt tolerant trees is the Japanese Black Pine. We have heard the success that various persons have had with the plant in this area, so it should be worth a try. Prices on these plants are extremely high and if purchased from other than local source, freight rates added to the original cost of the plant frequently push the delivered price up beyond reason. Do not forget planting time and costs, also.

Another tree that is tolerant to small amounts of salt spray is the live oak. They cannot always be adapted to a salt spray situation, but they are certainly worth a try. One may also be worthwhile trying if you live west of Atlantic Avenue.

Many people expect to buy maple's or pin oaks for ocean front planting, completely ignorant of the damaging effects from the wind and spray. The best way to determine what will and will not grow in an unusual situation is to look around and see what nature has put there or what your neighbors have successfully established. Learn by their experience. There are two bay trees growing in my yard that make excellent shade trees. They withstood last year's hurricane effects wonderfully while adjacent pines (not Japanese Black) were burned back extensively.

If you live away from salt spray areas, you are fortunate horticulturally speaking, because you have virtually an unlimited choice of trees available for your yard for both shade and color.

The fastest growing of all shade trees is the silver maple. They will give large areas of shade in a very short number of years, however, they have one big drawback. Like all shallow rooted trees of which maples are notoriously famous, it is extremely

Tuberculosis Is Hard To Control

One in every 98 Men, Women and Children in Princess Anne County either has TB, is suspected of having it, or because of close contact with a case has a good chance of developing it.

43,910 Virginians are under treatment or observation as tuberculosis cases suspected cases or contacts of cases, local health departments in the State reported on January 5. The 43,910 being watched by health departments are an average of one person in every 83 men, women and children in the entire State.

The figures furnished through the State Health Department and local health services were compiled by the Virginia Tuberculosis Association as a public service. W. W. Wendt, executive director, said. He added that so far as he knew it was the first time such figures had been compiled.

"These statistics are being known," Wendt said, "to give Virginians a picture of the tremendous problems that confront us in tuberculosis control despite the fact that drugs and surgery have reduced our death rates from the disease."

Health Department records show that there are 12,275 actual known cases of tuberculosis in the State, 6,800 of whom are active, 2,333 suspected cases, and 29,402 contacts (persons who come into frequent and intimate contact with a tuberculosis sufferer). Even those who are not active cases must be followed by the health departments for X-rays and check-up examinations. Health officials believe that from 8,000 to 10,000 cases have not yet been discovered, and base these figures on the fact that of 447 deaths from the disease last year in Virginia, 213 were never reported as cases until their death certificates were signed.

Loudoun County fared worst of all statistically with one out of every 21 of its citizens under observation for manifestations of T. B. In Wise County, one in every 48 must be followed by health departments. Arlington and Richmond reported increases in tuberculosis cases, the latter city more than in eight previous years. If you wish additional information, please contact your local tuberculosis association.

difficult to keep a stand of grass beneath them. The roots compete so severely with grass plants for food and water that the grass begins to disappear entirely. Another consideration is the fact that the shade a maple tree casts is so dense that grass finds it hard to survive for this reason, also.

A hybrid tree has been developed by plant breeders that seems to be one of the best on the market today for shade tree. It is the Morraine Locust. Many of the undesirable locust characteristics have been bred out of the tree, and here is what is left. A tree that is relatively deep rooted (good for hurricanes), grows relatively fast, but of prime importance, it has small leaves that do not have to be raked when they fall, and the shade cast by the tree is light filtered shade that will permit grass to grow nicely beneath the tree. The name again is Morraine Locust.

It has promising possibilities and is a tree that you will be hearing more about.

First Phase Of Building Program

The first phase of a Randolph-Macon College development program to raise funds for new buildings, endowment, campus improvements, and other "needed facilities" was announced Wednesday by James Mullen, president of the college's board of trustees. The announcement was made following a special trustees meeting held here.

The program, Mullen said, is designed to secure a minimum of $2,500,000 over a ten-year period. The first phase of the total proposed campaign, to be called the Randolph-Macon 125th Anniversary Development Program, will begin immediately to raise at least $500,000.

Randolph-Macon College, the oldest Methodist-related college in America celebrated the 125th anniversary of its founding last year in a series of special convocations.

Funds raised during the first phase are to be used for the construction of a new administration building, a library addition, the restoration of a presently condemned campus landmark, and equipment for these proposed units. "These projects," Mullen said, "are long overdue and have been of concern to both the college administration and trustees."

At present, the administration of the college is carried out in the basement and first floor of one of the college's dormitories. Plans call for the construction of a $225,000 administration building to be named after Bishop William Walter Pelee, retired bishop of the Richmond Area of the Methodist Church.

The Walter Hines Page Library, built 30 years ago, contains 12,000 books over its original capacity. The proposed new addition, costing $200,000, would double the floor space presently available for library functions.

Washington and Franklin Hall, constructed shortly after the college moved to its present location from Boydton, Virginia in 1868, is the oldest brick building in Ashland. Reportedly built by the manual labor of students and alumni, "Wash Hall" probably has more sentimental association attached to it than any other building on the campus. The structure, condemned in 1952, was used in recent years as an administrative center.

However, it is planned to spend $25,000 restoring the library society rooms on the first floor for use as a college shrine and museum. The second floor would be made over into offices for various activities.

In outlining the development plans, Mullen said, "We believe Randolph-Macon has a great story to tell. For the past 125 years she has been a leader in the field of higher education. Her sons have not only assumed leadership in the business, civic, and religious life of the Greater Richmond Area, but throughout the Commonwealth and beyond."

"We are proud," Mullen continued, "of the deep and abiding affiliation that exists between the College and Methodist Church. We are especially proud of the fact that over 300 ministers in the Virginia Conference are alumni."

"I know that we can depend upon all of our alumni and friends to answer this call to help underwrite this Christian college as she points toward another 125 years of achievement."
